MEET THE REAL ESTATE DREAM TEAM

Carlette Napoles and Cheyenne Peterson started The Real Estate Dream Team in 2013 and registered it with the Idaho Secretary of State in 2014. They offer local knowledge, elevated marketing and coordinated service for moves that touch Idaho, Oregon and California. Three states. One team. You get founder-level access, not a maze of transfers.

Carlette Napoles, REALTOR® (Idaho SP38027 · CA DRE #02047937), is the warm front door of the practice: conversations, client care, and the relationship craft that helps relocators feel steady. With a career built on trust, she helps clients feel at home in the Treasure Valley before they unpack the first box.

Cheyenne Peterson, Associate Broker, co-founded the team with a marketer's eye and a broker's discipline: systems, strategy, contracts, and the belief that a move deserves both heart and precision. Licensed since 2005, she holds licenses in Idaho (AB40398), Oregon (Principal Broker #201224149) and California (CA DRE #01770123), with a focus on relocation. She listens first, then turns what she hears into a clear plan. Her 2011 bachelor's degree in Business, Real Estate & Urban Land Development from CSU grounds her understanding of financing, investment and economic cycles.

THE TREASURE VALLEY

The Boise-Nampa metropolitan area is known as the Treasure Valley. In addition to Boise and Nampa, the Treasure Valley includes Garden City, Meridian, Eagle, Caldwell, Star, Middleton, and Kuna. Situated between the Boise foothills to the north and the Owyhee Mountain Range to the southwest, the valley provides abundant recreational activities within minutes of your home. In wintertime, these snow-covered ranges are breathtakingly beautiful.

The area was coined the "Treasure Valley" in 1959 by the Chamber of Commerce because it recognized the abundance of resources and opportunities available, and the name stuck. Discover why it is such a genuine treasure today. Surrounded by beauty, a thriving economy, reduced commutes, and a wide variety of recreational options. You'll find living in the Treasure Valley an opportunity you won't want to miss.

LIFE IS BETTER HERE

Living in the Treasure Valley offers a quality of life that is hard to match, with more time for the things you love: cultural entertainment, open space and adventure. Commutes are typically shorter than in larger metros, which means less time on the road and more time enjoying life.

> Whatever your passions, you'll find them in the valley, and many are just minutes from home.

You will quickly discover an abundance of activities for every interest. There is easy access to open spaces such as rivers, lakes and trails, and a vibrant downtown with dining and entertainment. Plenty of indoor activities are also available year-round, including rock climbing, ice skating, trampoline parks and more.

The Treasure Valley has so much going for it: a vibrant urban and metropolitan economic and educational base, a business-friendly environment, four distinct seasons and plenty of public land that allows a lifetime of weekend adventures.

BOISE & SURROUNDING VALLEY BY THE SEASON

IF YOU LIKE SUNSHINE, YOU'LL LOVE THE TREASURE VALLEY.
With low humidity and about 11.5 inches of precipitation a year (NOAA 1991–2020 normals), the climate here is ideal for spending time outside. Weather in the Treasure Valley is influenced by Pacific weather patterns, which help moderate temperature extremes.

WINTER

DEC – FEB
AVERAGE HIGH: 41°F
AVERAGE LOW: 27°F
PRECIPITATION: 3.95”

Even though the weather gets chilly, there's no reason to stay indoors. Walk, run or ride on the Boise River Greenbelt or head up to Bogus Basin for the day with various runs for all different abilities.

SPRING

MAR – MAY
AVERAGE HIGH: 63°F
AVERAGE LOW: 41°F
PRECIPITATION: 4.01”

Spring gives way to warmer afternoons with chilly early mornings and evenings. As the days slowly get longer, you’ll have more time to enjoy the best of the Treasure Valley. Anything from camping to downtown entertainment.

SUMMER

JUN – AUG
AVERAGE HIGH: 88°F
AVERAGE LOW: 59°F
PRECIPITATION: 1.13”

Nothing quite compares to a Treasure Valley summer. Float the Boise River, plan BBQs with friends, or relax outdoors on the patio of a local restaurant. And don’t forget about the natural beauty of Idaho - get outside!

FALL

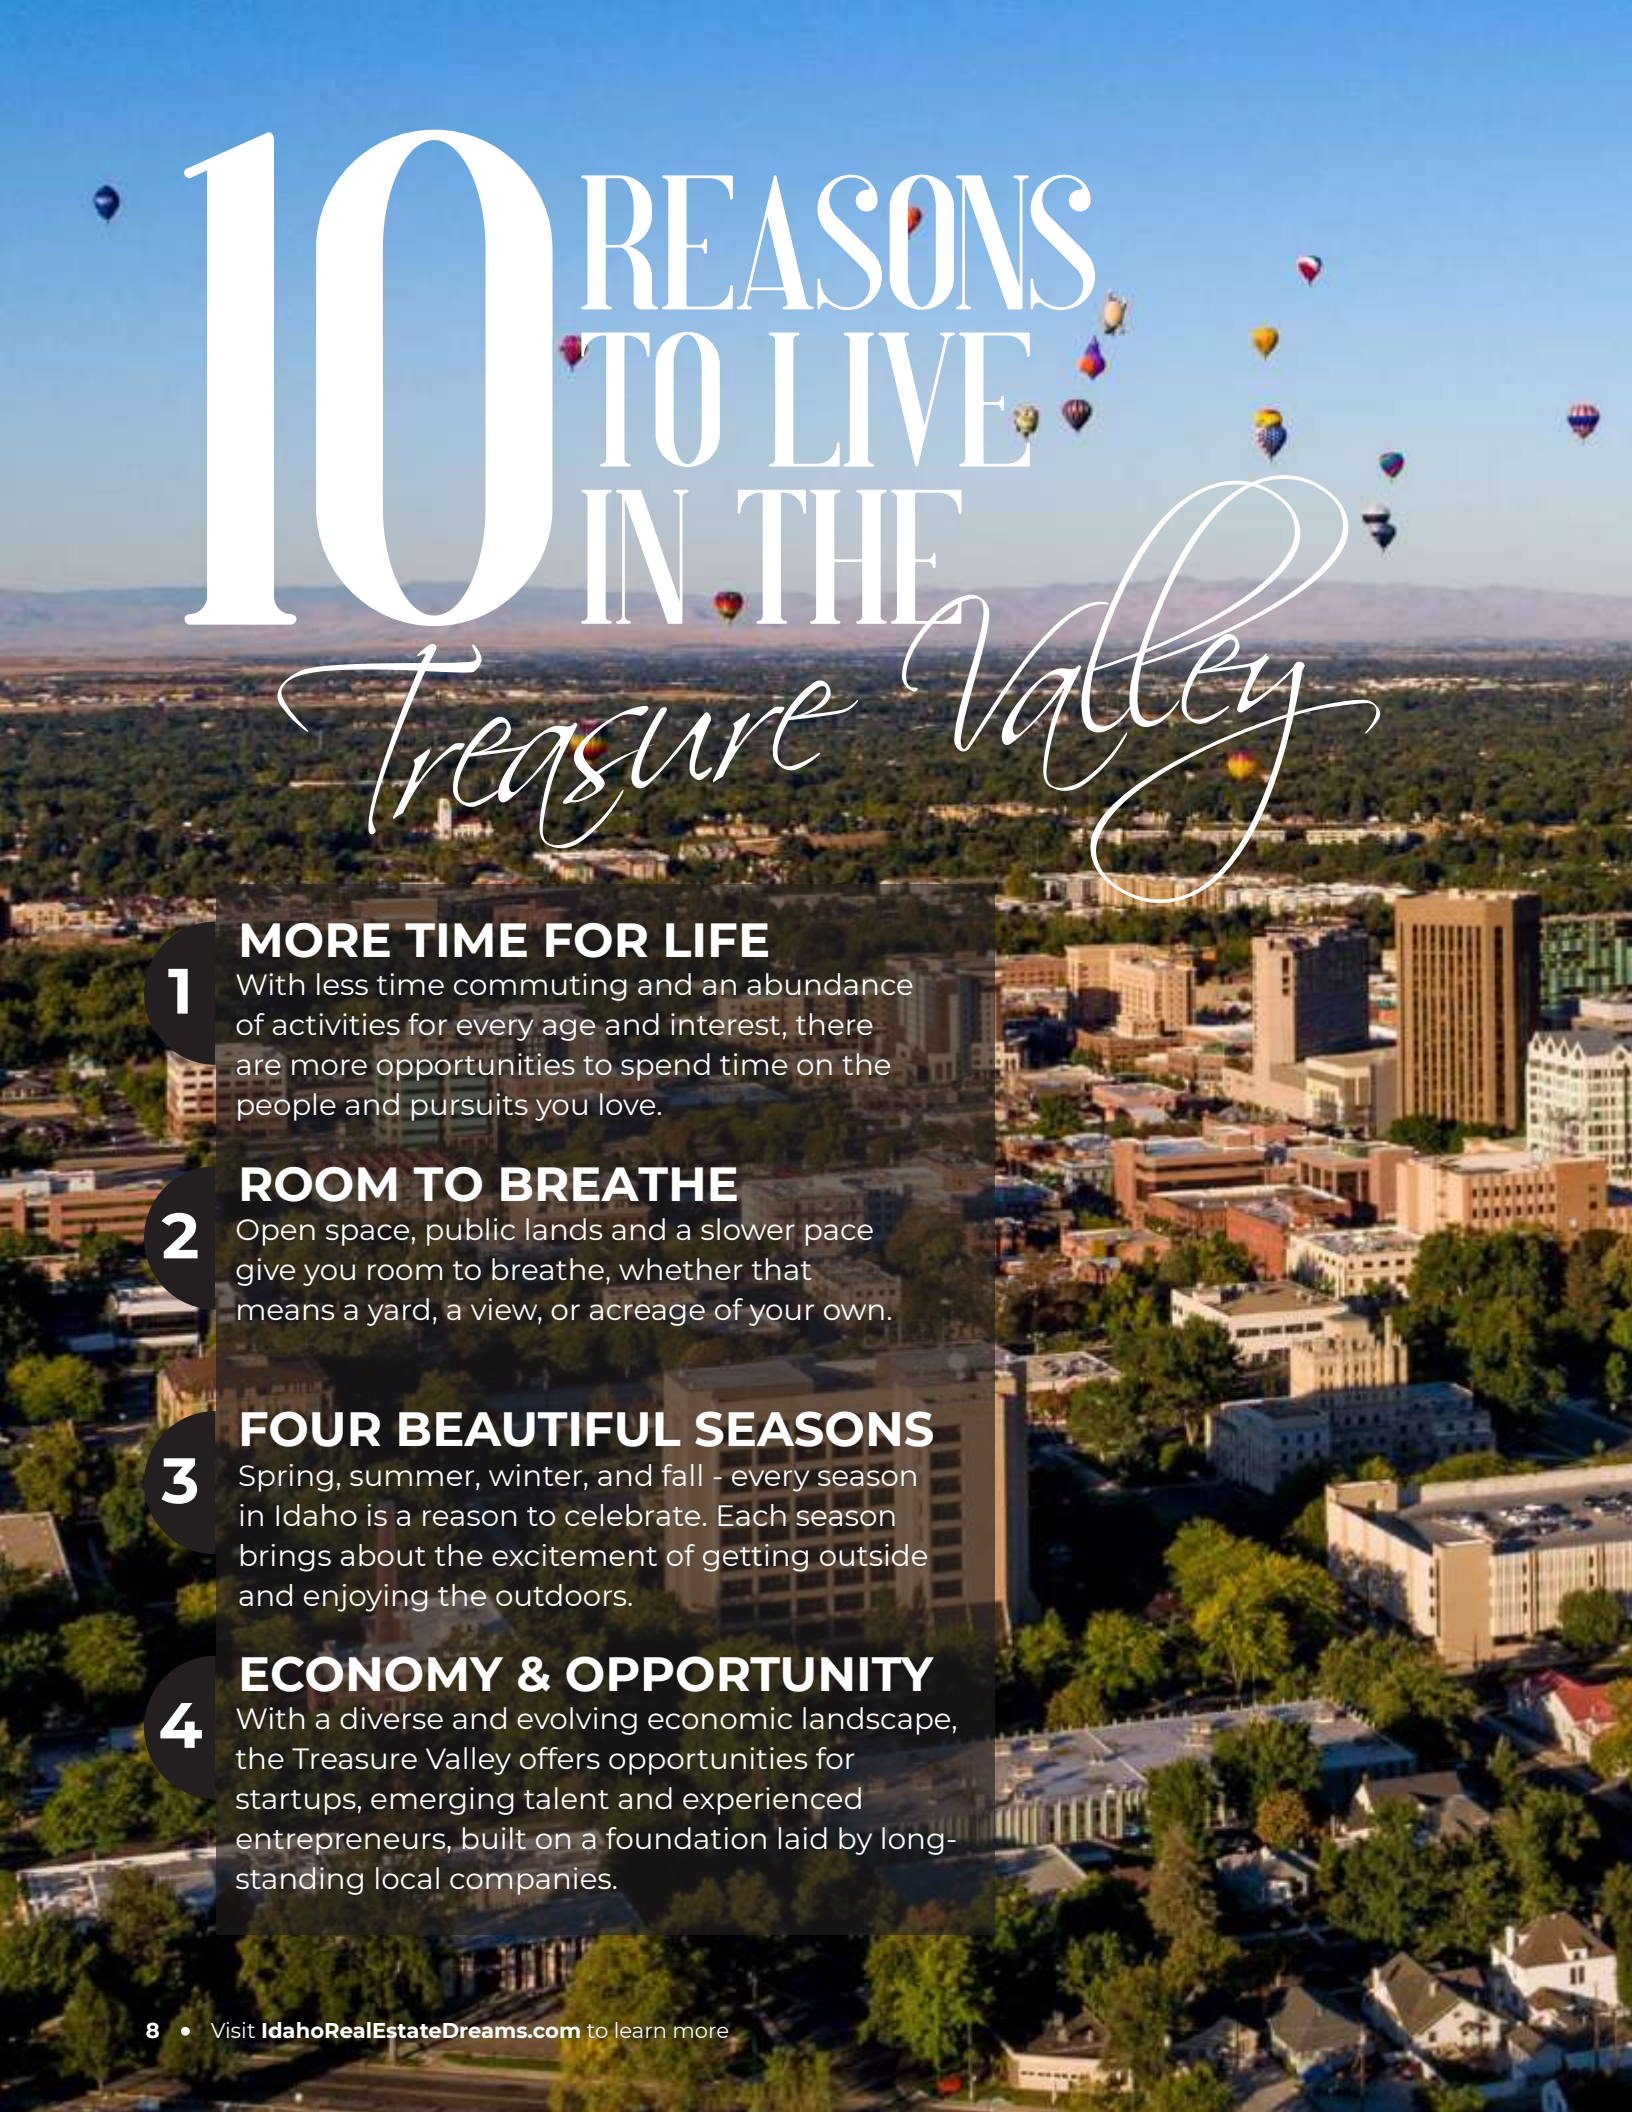

SEP – NOV
AVERAGE HIGH: 65°F
AVERAGE LOW: 42°F
PRECIPITATION: 2.42”

You’ll love the vibrant colors of a Treasure Valley fall. Mountain bikers and hikers pack the local hills to take advantage of perfect cooler temperatures, shared with abundant wildlife preparing for winter.

10 REASONS TO LIVE IN THE Treasure Valley

1 MORE TIME FOR LIFE

With less time commuting and an abundance of activities for every age and interest, there are more opportunities to spend time on the people and pursuits you love.

2 ROOM TO BREATHE

Open space, public lands and a slower pace give you room to breathe, whether that means a yard, a view, or acreage of your own.

3 FOUR BEAUTIFUL SEASONS

Spring, summer, winter, and fall - every season in Idaho is a reason to celebrate. Each season brings about the excitement of getting outside and enjoying the outdoors.

4 ECONOMY & OPPORTUNITY

With a diverse and evolving economic landscape, the Treasure Valley offers opportunities for startups, emerging talent and experienced entrepreneurs, built on a foundation laid by long-standing local companies.

EASY TRAVEL 5

Boise Airport (BOI) served a record 5.2 million passengers in 2025, with nonstop service to about 30 destinations.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS 6

Camping, fishing, hunting, hiking, mountain biking, river rafting, hot springs, skiing, golfing, off-roading, and much more – all within minutes to a couple of hours away.

ARTS AND CULTURE 7

Boise has first-class shopping, theatre, live music, sporting events, festivals, dining, microbrew beer, local coffee and more.

HIGHER EDUCATION 8

The valley is home to Boise State University and a range of colleges and universities, with programs from engineering to medicine.

SUMMER LIFE 9

Farmers markets, outdoor music festivals, First Thursday, river floating, camping – summer here is packed, with daylight until about 9:30 p.m. in late June!

WINTER SPORTS 10

Bogus Basin, a nonprofit mountain recreation area about 16 miles from downtown Boise, offers downhill and cross-country skiing, snowboarding and snowshoeing.

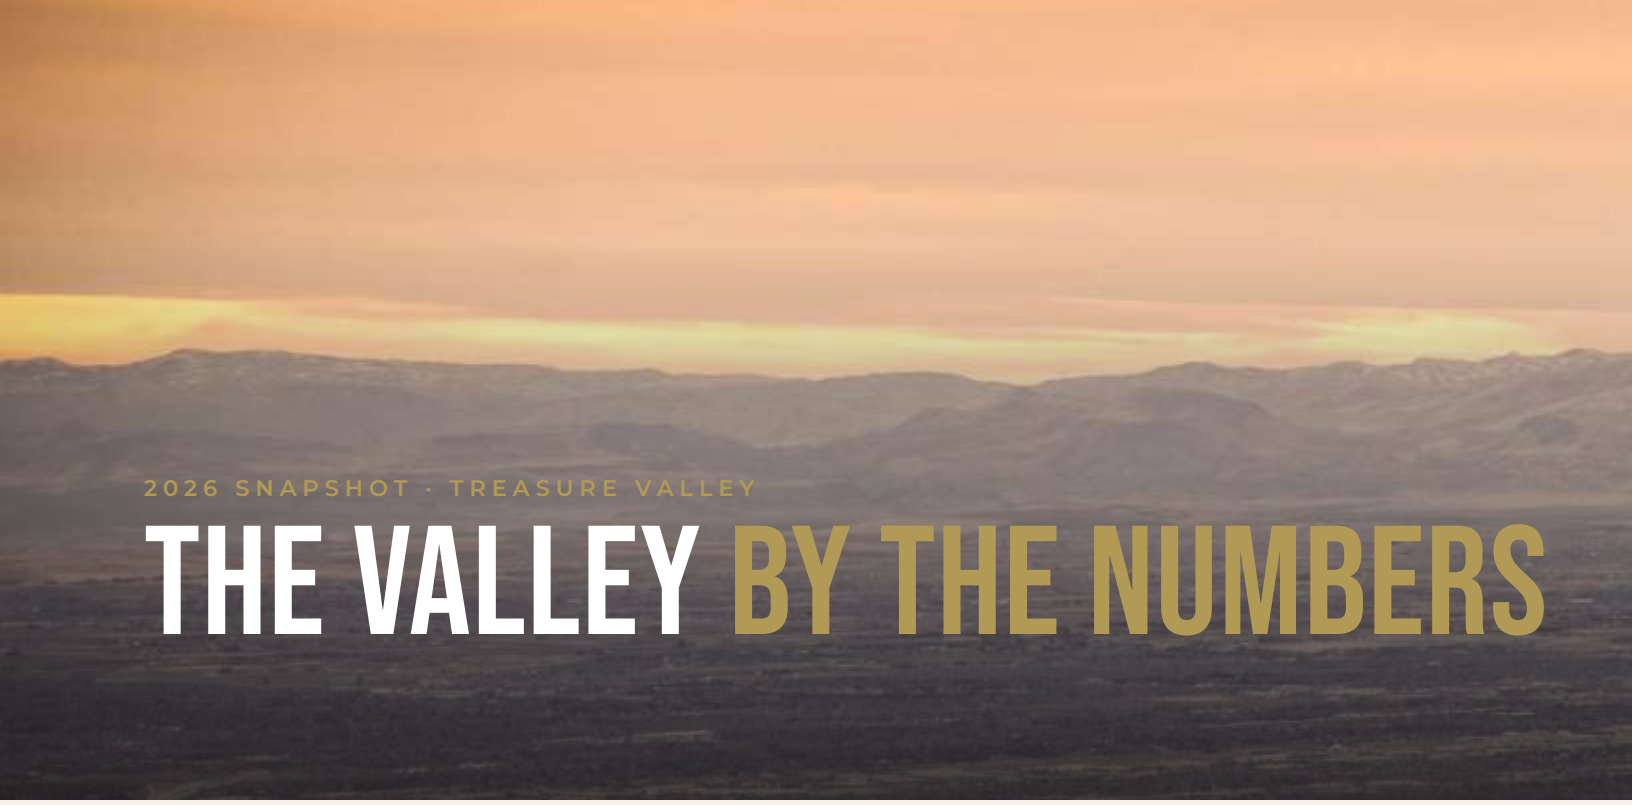

Geography & Climate

The Treasure Valley is a vast region in southwest Idaho that extends into southeast Oregon. Considered to be at the foot of the distant Rocky Mountains, this section is a broad valley centered on the Boise region. The valley floor is carved by streams and rivers, the largest being the Boise River, which flows west to join the Snake River near the Oregon border.

The geographic location of the Boise metropolitan area is conducive to four distinct seasons. Summer afternoons typically reach the upper eighties to nineties, with overnight lows near sixty. Summers are dry and particularly pleasant in the early evenings and early mornings. The Treasure Valley's winters are moderately cold, with infrequent snow. Spring and autumn are ideal seasons to explore most of Idaho, especially if mountain biking, camping and fishing are among your top recreational pursuits.

BEFORE YOU TOUR

FINDING YOUR COMMUNITY FIT

Falling in love with a kitchen photo is easy. Building a life in the wrong community is expensive. Use this framework, then tour with purpose.

SIX LENSES FOR EVERY AREA

COMMUTE & CORRIDORS

Where will work, the airport and your weekly anchors actually pull you? Think in corridors and patterns, not a single minute count.

DAILY RHYTHM

Quiet mornings or urban energy? Yard time or walkability?

SCHOOLS (PROCESS)

If schools matter, how will you research districts, visit, and understand open enrollment and attendance boundaries?

VIBE

New master-planned polish, an established tree canopy, a small-town main street, or an acreage horizon?

BUDGET

What must the home do, and what can wait for the next chapter?

FUTURE PLANS

Three years or fifteen? Aging in place, resale flexibility, multigenerational needs?

MATCHING PERSONALITY TO PLACE

- Urban energy: closer to downtown Boise's rhythm, walkability and events
- Polished suburban: amenities, newer neighborhoods and a predictable neighborhood fabric
- Quiet acreage: privacy, sky, and responsibility for land and its systems
- Small-town core: a main street, a slower pulse and a tight-knit feel

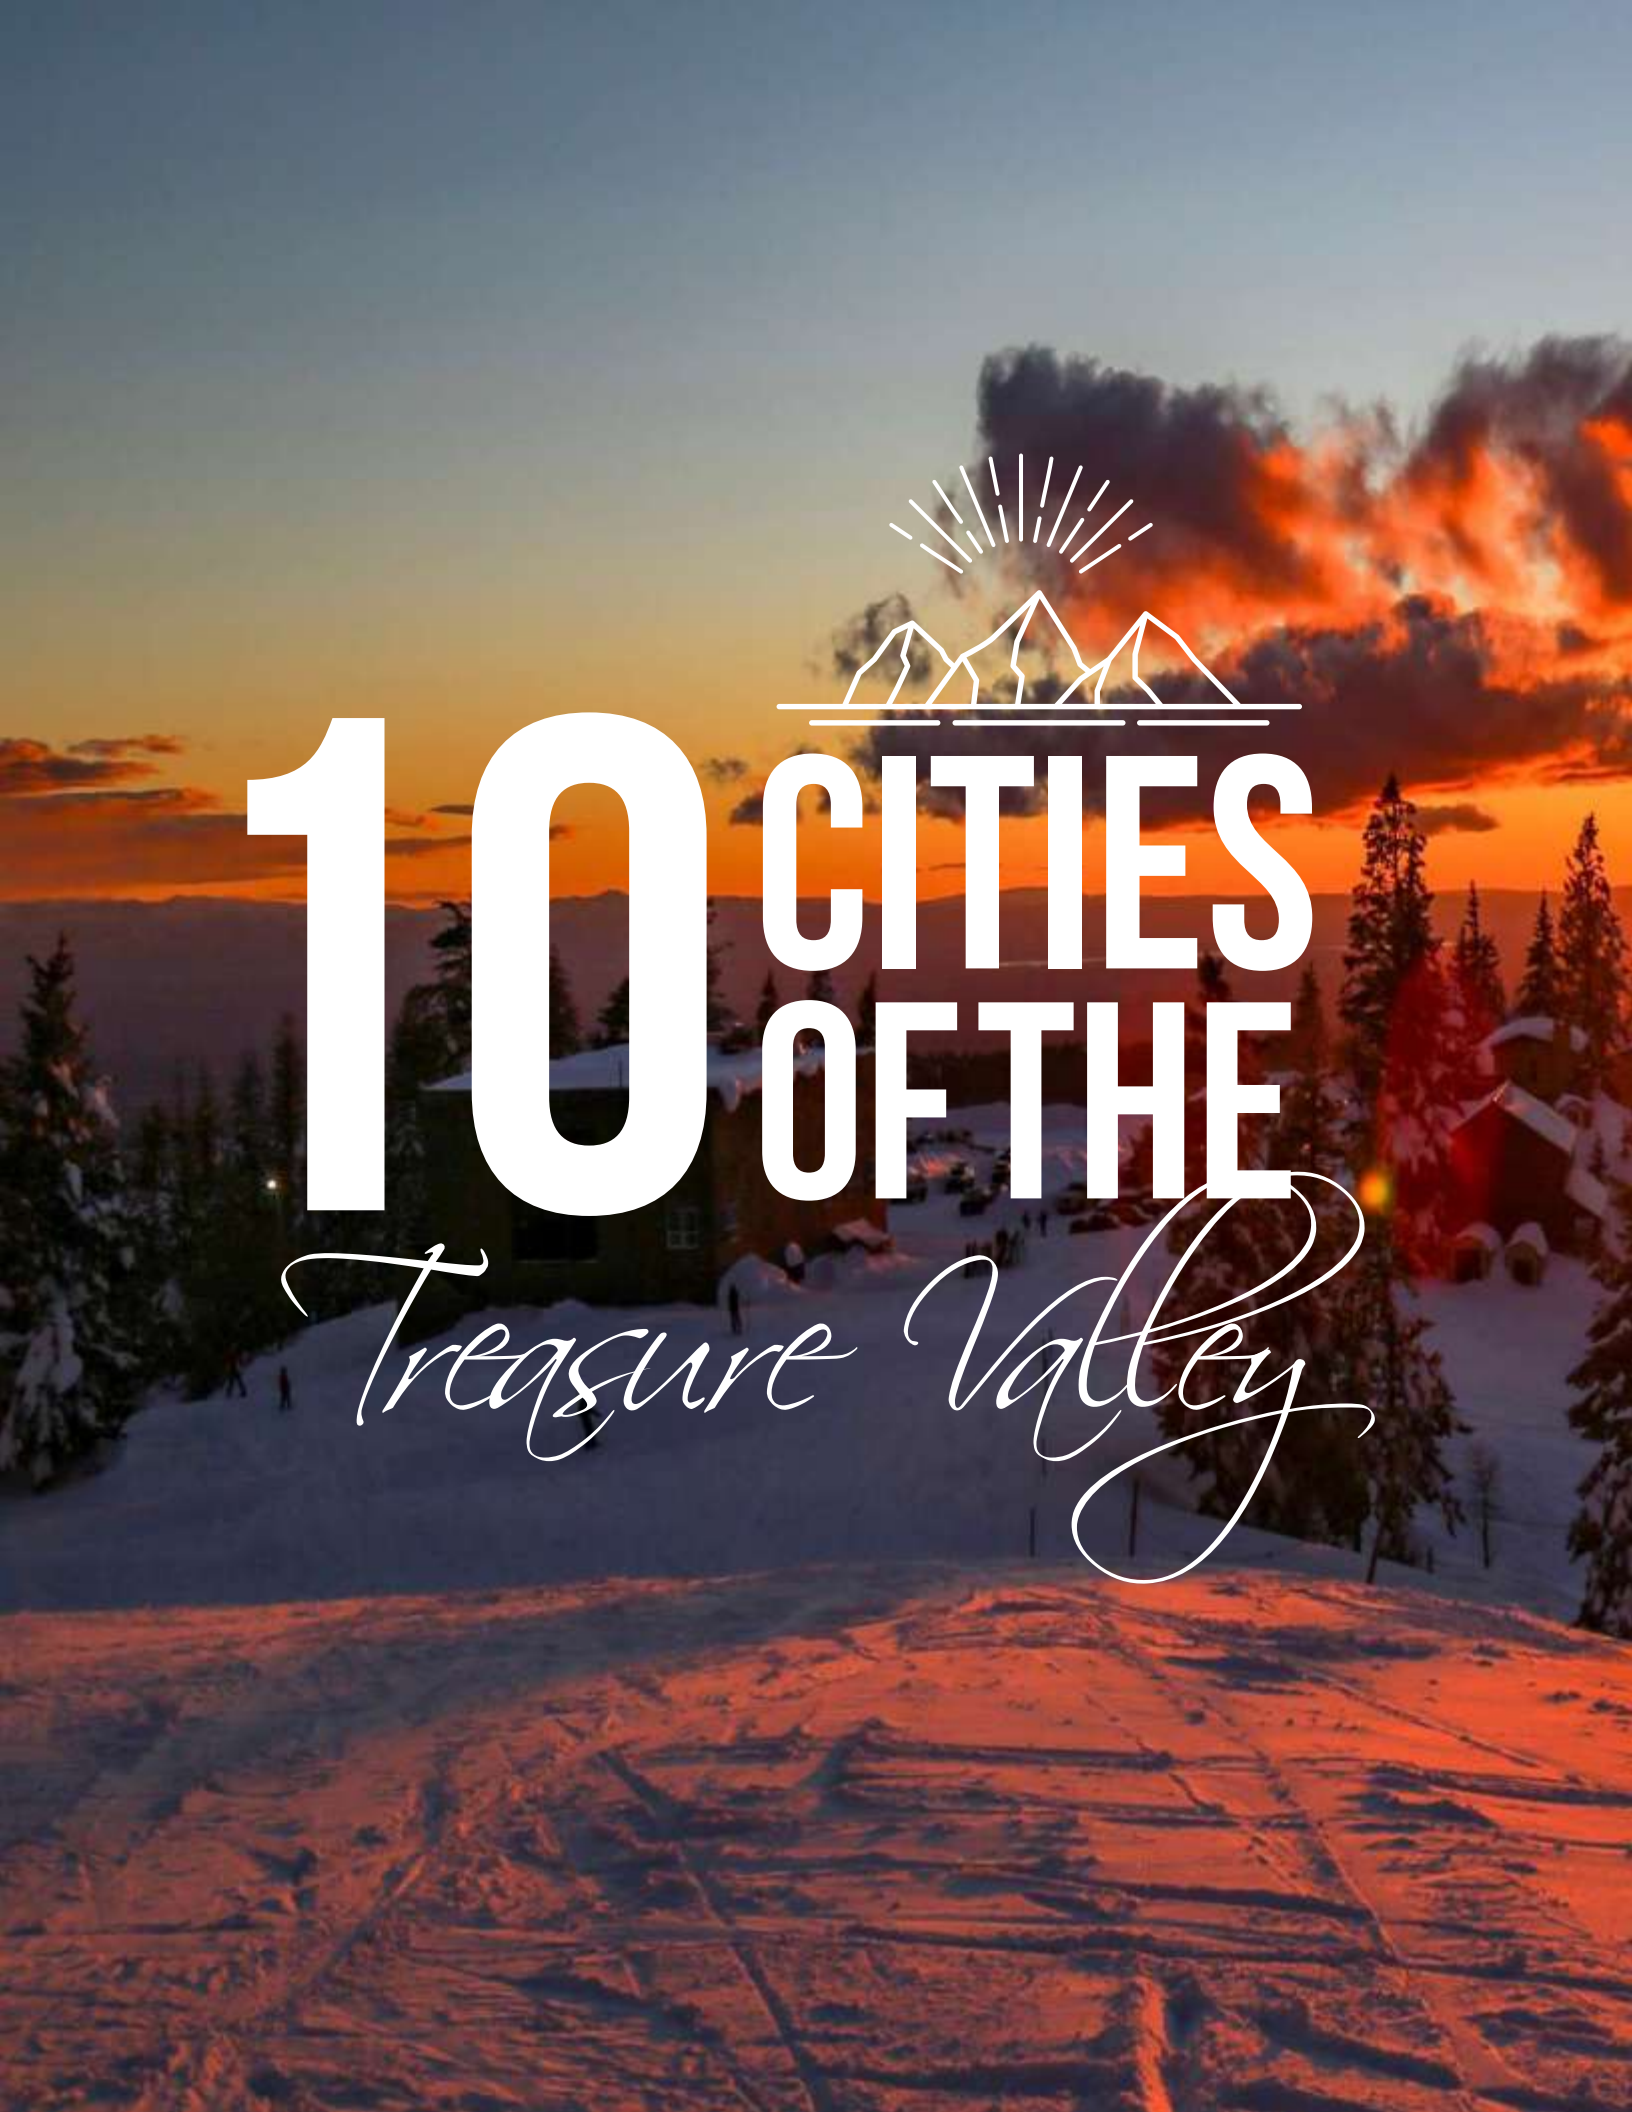

None is "better." One is yours.

RESEARCHING SCHOOLS

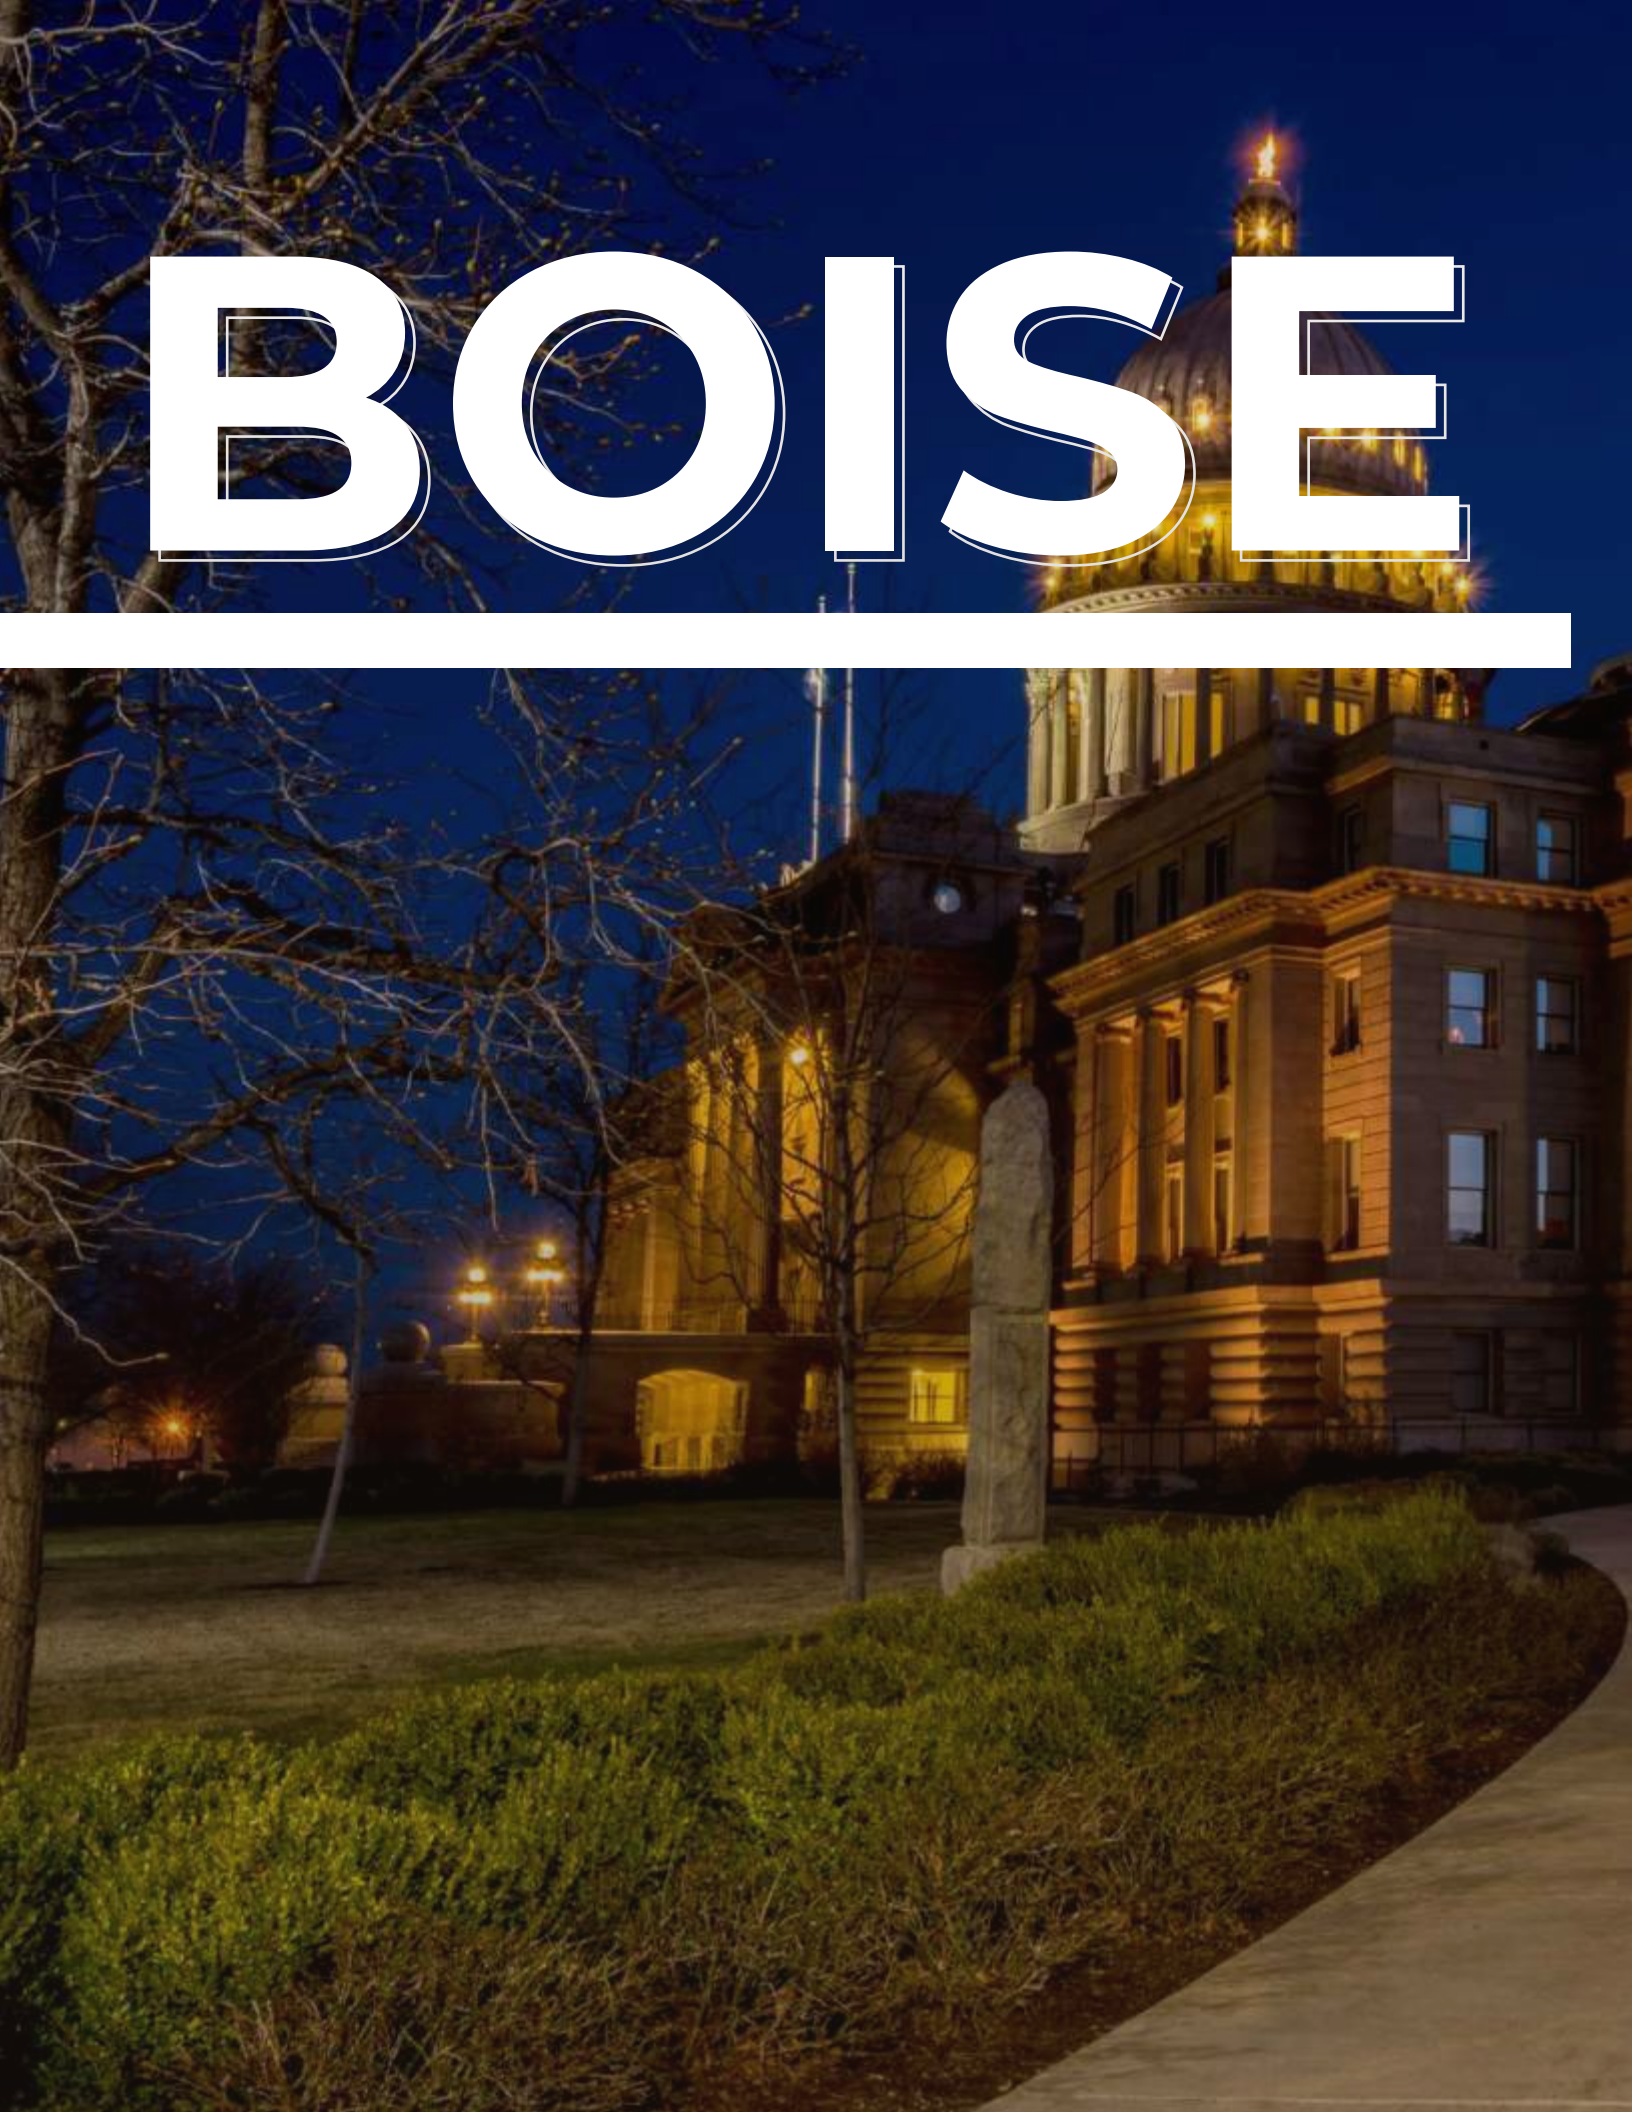

- Confirm which district and attendance zone serve each address you like. District lines don't always follow city lines.
- Ask about open enrollment, transfers and timelines, and confirm them with each district.
- Use official sources: idahoreportcard.org, sde.idaho.gov and each district's website.

We don't publish school rankings. Fit is personal, and boundaries and policies change.

10 CITIES OF THE
Treasure Valley

BOISE

BOISE

BOISE, IDAHO

Where you can go skiing or tubing at Bogus Basin Mountain Recreation Area and then meet up with friends for burgers on the way home from the slopes. Boise has a thriving downtown with craft breweries, boutiques and cafes. It's a bustling city where you can take a rideshare to the theater or hit the dirt trails just outside your home.

As the state capital, Boise is home to about 238,000 people (U.S. Census Bureau, July 2025). It is just the right size to be convenient and easy to get around in, but not so big that it feels impersonal, and the metro area keeps growing: about 2.2% in 2025.

In Boise, residents and visitors alike enjoy the outdoors year-round. Even if you're not an outdoor enthusiast, there are lots of other things to do, such as jazz and music festivals, live theater and art exhibits. Boise is home to one of the largest Basque communities in the United States. Boise State Broncos games and Idaho Steelheads (ECHL) hockey are two of the most popular sporting events in the state.

Boise comprises a number of different communities. Anyone who comes to Boise to visit or live, feels welcome.

NORTHWEST BOISE

Northwest Boise is a popular area because of its proximity to the foothills, the Greenbelt, and the city center. There are both historic and modern neighborhoods here. Along its northern boundary are the lovely Boise foothills, making this area famous not only for its convenience but also for its natural beauty.

NORTH END

The North End is Boise's historical jewel, with many of the city's older homes and tranquil neighborhoods located close to downtown. One of Boise's most desired areas, thanks to tree-lined streets like Harrison Boulevard and the Historic Hyde Park District, which is home to boutiques and popular eateries.

NORTHEAST BOISE

The Warms Springs neighborhood is located in Boise's northeast. In addition to being the most prestigious and desirable neighborhood in all of Boise, this area also offers easy access to the city center at a premium price. The stunning large houses of Warm Springs, along with the Old Idaho Penitentiary, the Idaho Botanical Gardens, and the Warm Springs Mesa, make up the attractions of this area. Boise's Northeast End is where you'll find the upscale new neighborhoods of Harris Ranch and River Heights in the Barber Valley.

DOWNTOWN BOISE

Downtown Boise is the city's cultural epicenter, filled with unique boutiques, delicious dining options, fun bars and lively nightlife. Walking through downtown is a pleasure, with tree-lined streets, public art and plenty of places to stop along the way.

BOISE BENCH

The Bench, as it is commonly called, sits roughly 60 feet above downtown Boise and offers some of the city's widest views. It is an established area with mature trees and a mix of older homes. The historic Boise Depot is located there, and the area is convenient to both the freeway and the heart of the city.

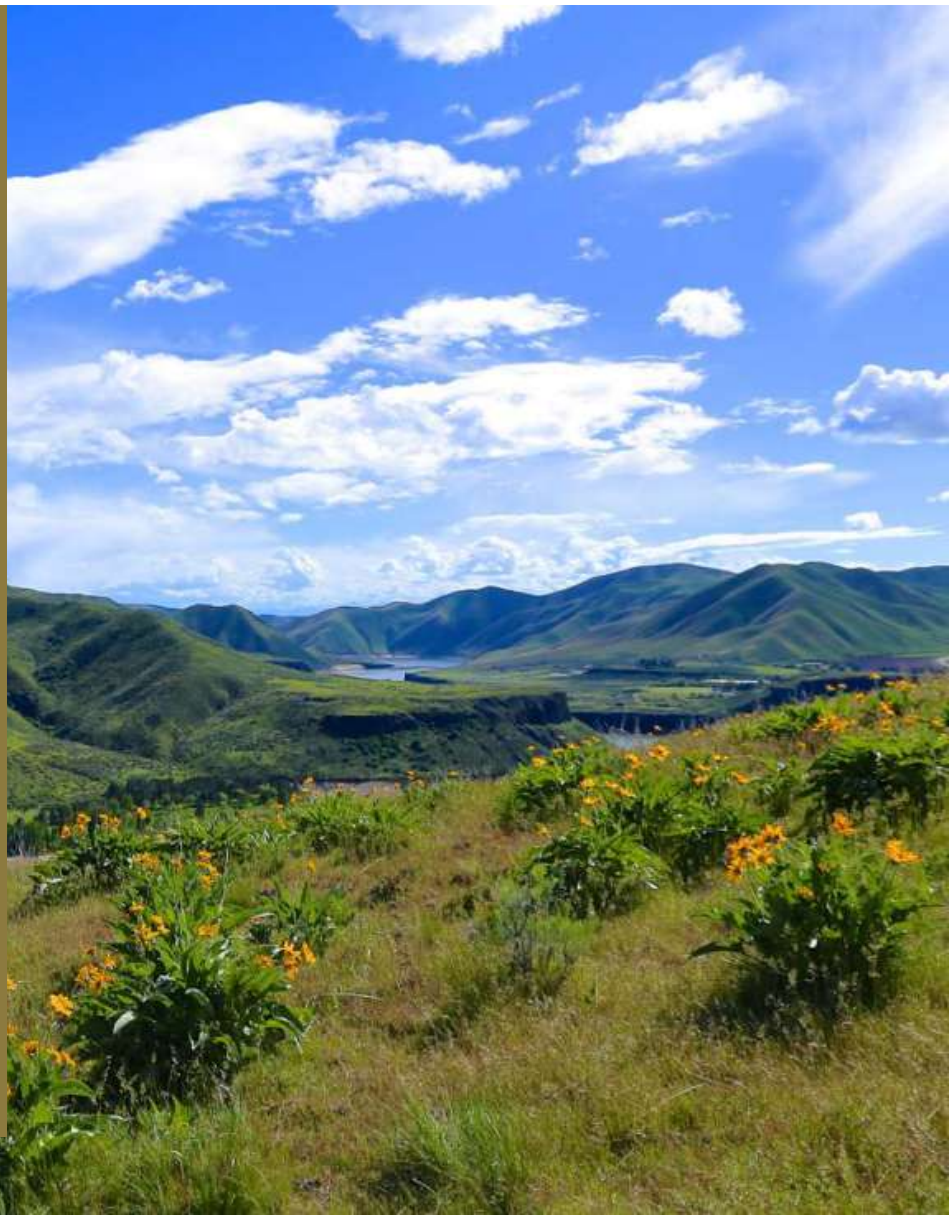

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

Boise State University and its distinctive blue-turf field, home to the Boise State Broncos football team. Located across the river from the city's central business district. Nearby neighborhoods and establishments cater specifically to the local student population.

SOUTHEAST BOISE

Southeast Boise encompasses a vast area extending from Boise State University to the city's outskirts. This area has grown over the past three decades, and most of the houses are suburban in style. Bown Crossing, a walkable village center, is known for its restaurants, specialty shops and a branch of the Boise Public Library.

SOUTHWEST BOISE

Residential development in Southwest Boise has flourished, giving the area a distinctly suburban feel. This area of Boise, with its convenient proximity to both the city center and the airport, is quickly becoming a popular choice for both newcomers and long-term residents due to the proliferation of new homes and neighborhoods in the area.

WEST BOISE

Boise Towne Square mall and numerous restaurants, shopping centers and residential developments (new subdivisions, apartment communities and more) can be found in West Boise, which links the city to the suburbs of Meridian and Eagle.

CALDWELL

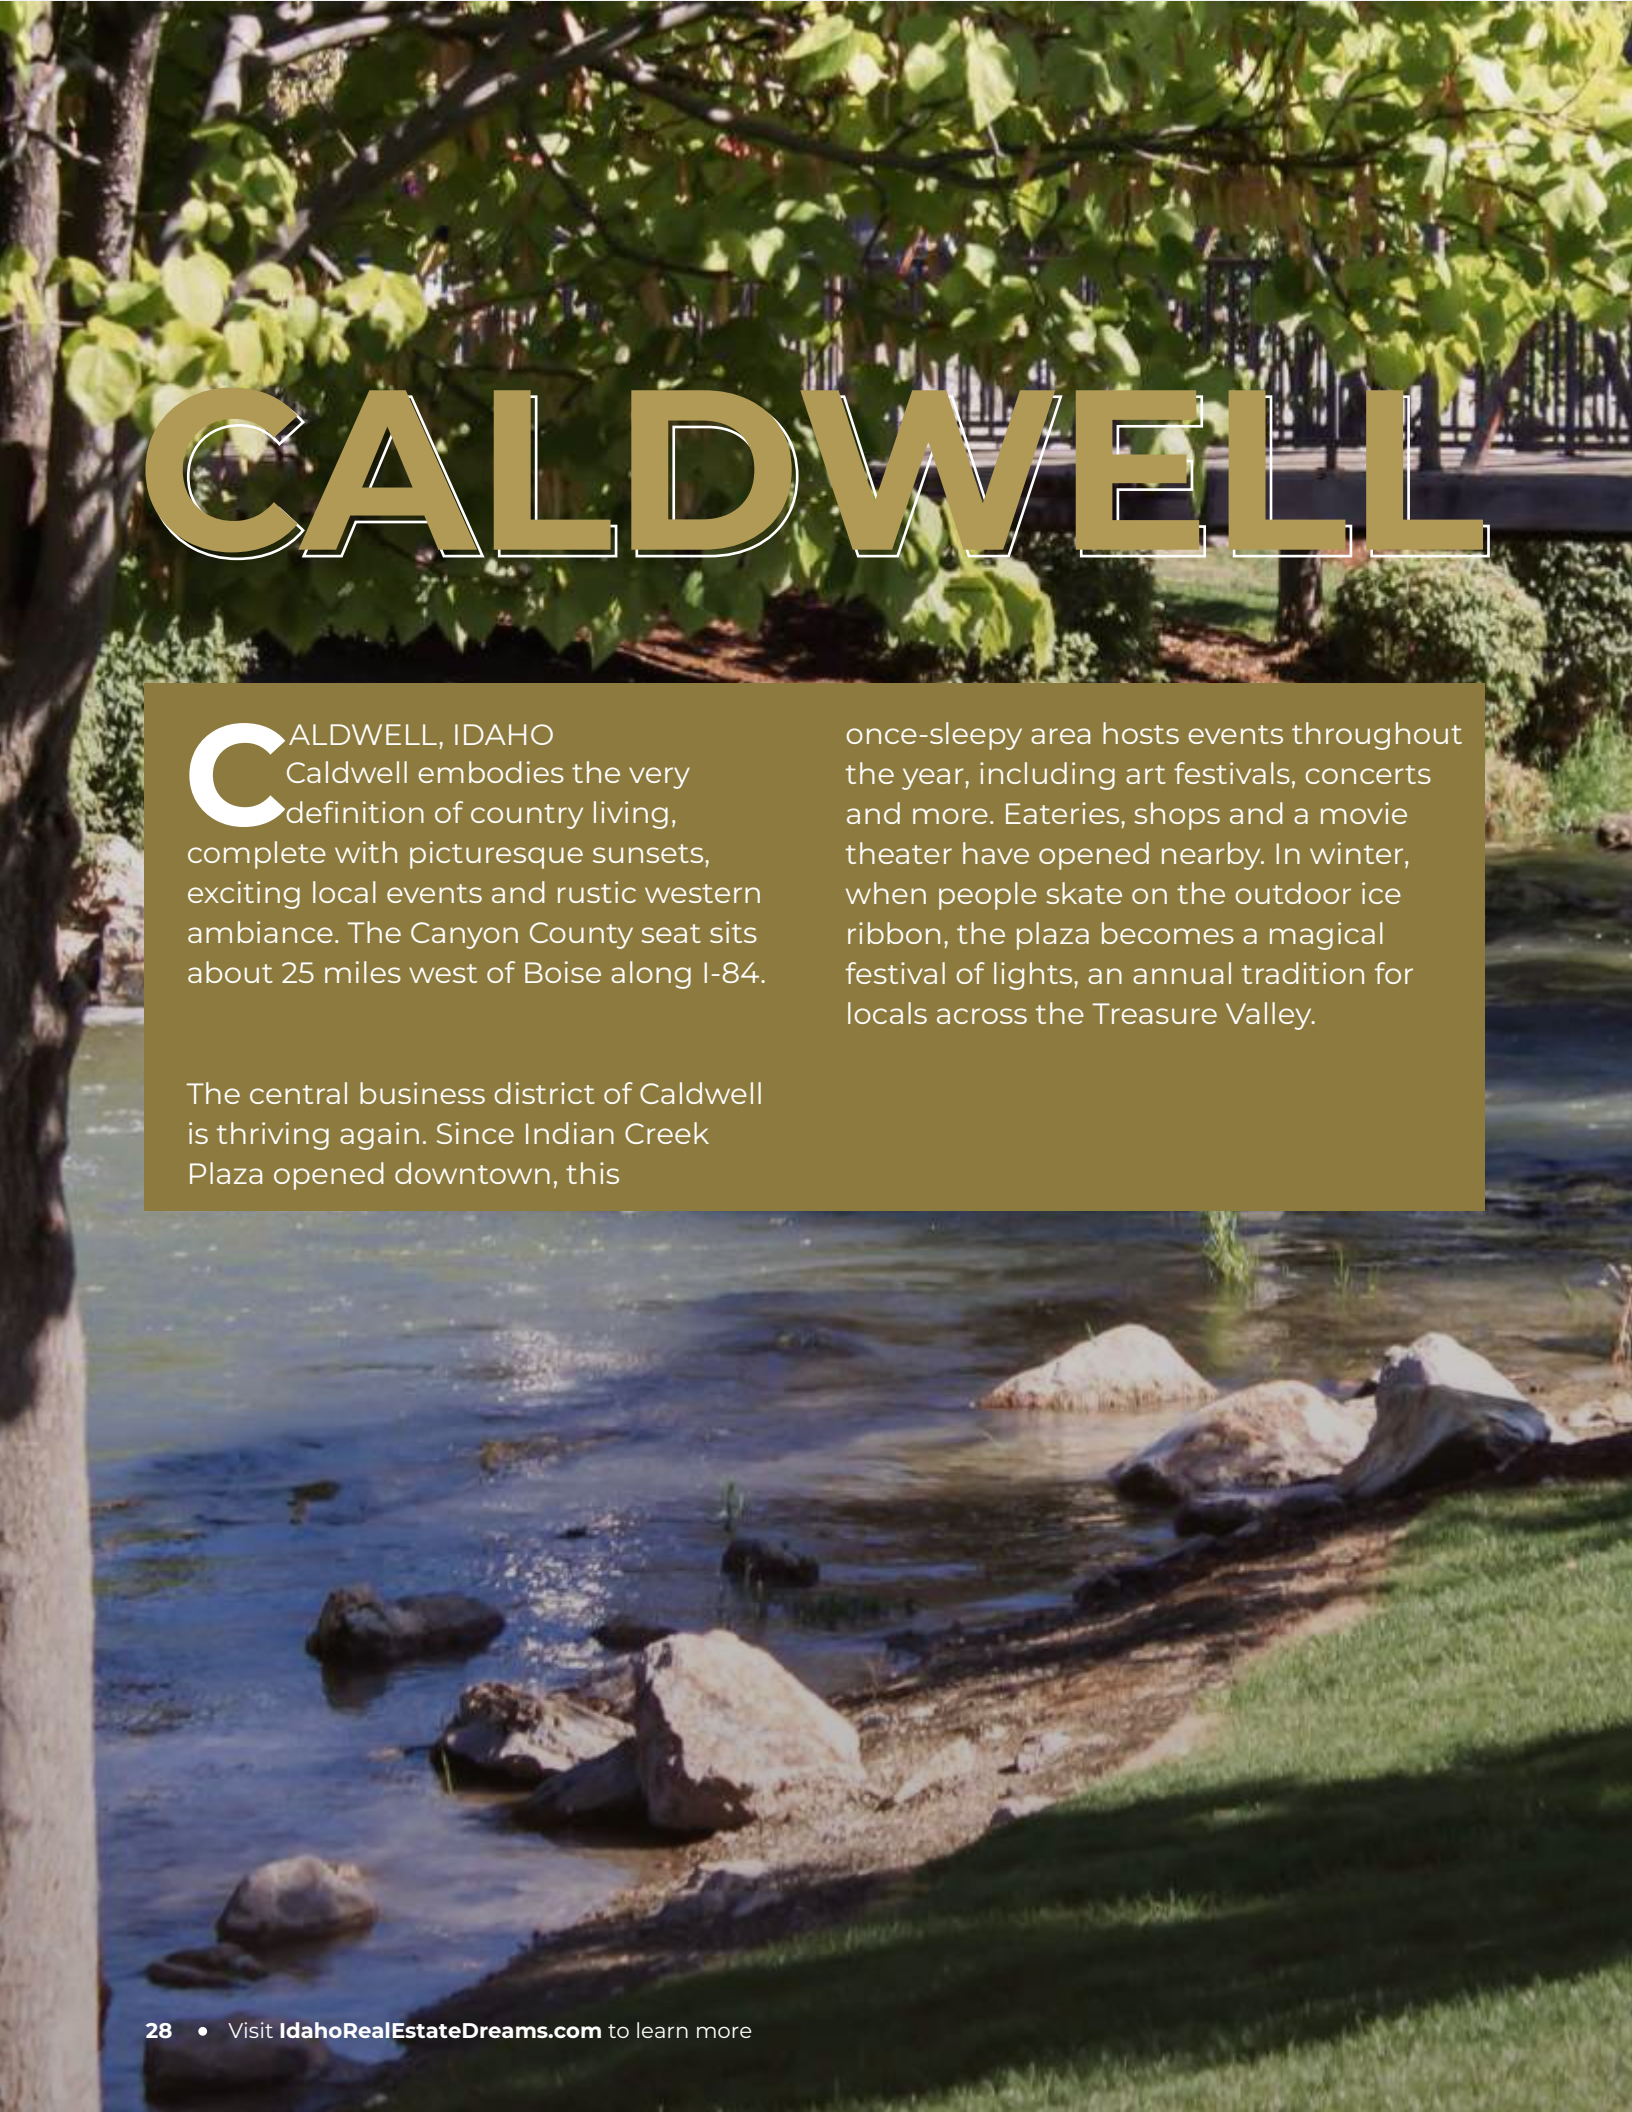

CALDWELL

CALDWELL, IDAHO
Caldwell embodies the very definition of country living, complete with picturesque sunsets, exciting local events and rustic western ambiance. The Canyon County seat sits about 25 miles west of Boise along I-84.

The central business district of Caldwell is thriving again. Since Indian Creek Plaza opened downtown, this once-sleepy area hosts events throughout the year, including art festivals, concerts and more. Eateries, shops and a movie theater have opened nearby. In winter, when people skate on the outdoor ice ribbon, the plaza becomes a magical festival of lights, an annual tradition for locals across the Treasure Valley.

COWBOYS AND COUNTRY

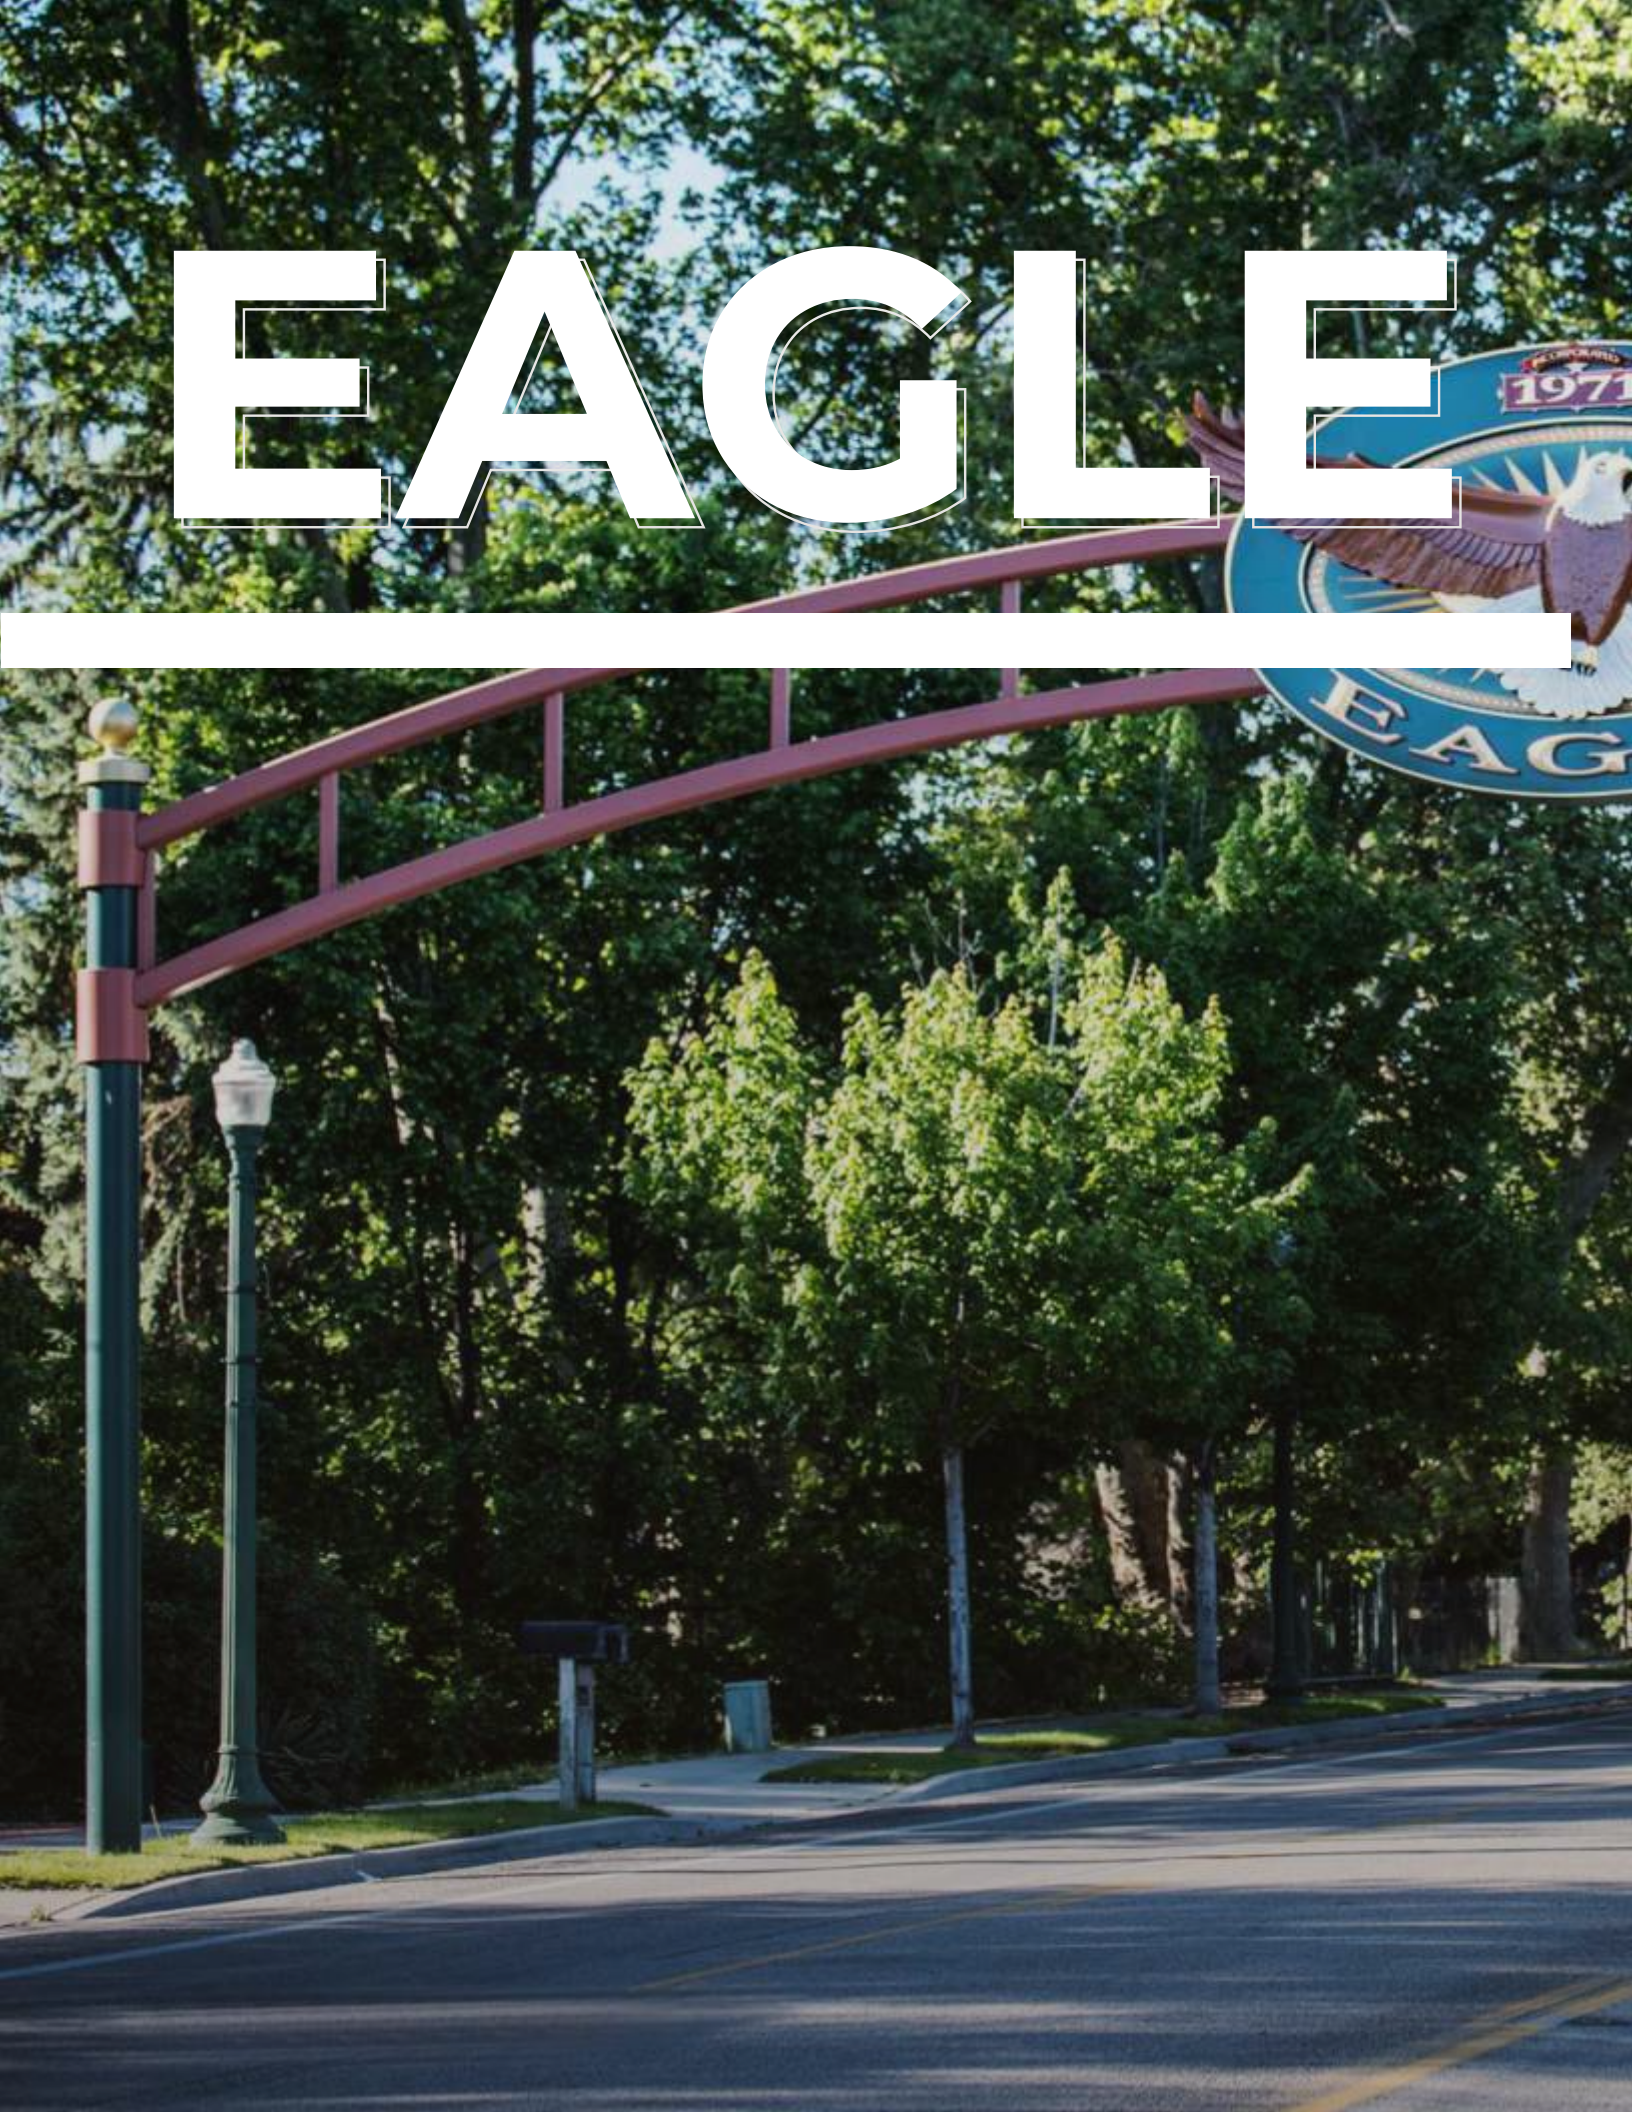

In this part of the valley, rodeos and county fairs are major events. The Caldwell Night Rodeo has run for more than a century; its 102nd year filled five August nights (Aug. 18–22, 2026). The Canyon County Fair is another summer highlight, with something for every age.

Caldwell is home to The College of Idaho, founded in 1891. The surrounding farmland is part of the rich Snake River Valley, and in season, roadside farm stands sell fruit and vegetables grown just outside town. Downtown, Indian Creek Plaza keeps the calendar full year-round.

PERFECT MIX

Caldwell blends historic and modern elements with ample open space to relax and take in your surroundings. It's a place where farm-to-table meals can be had at a longtime diner or the newest restaurant in town, and where cowboy boots fit right in downtown. This community is the ideal blend of cowboy and chic.

EAGLE

EAGLE

EAGLE, IDAHO

Eagle is a picturesque city in the Treasure Valley, between the Boise foothills and the river. The city is known for its horse properties, spas and beautiful natural landscapes. The Greenbelt, a stretch of the Boise River lined with tall trees and walkways, runs right through town. When it comes to personality, recreation and charm, Eagle stands out thanks to its historic downtown, eclectic calendar of community activities and undeniable sense of civic pride.

Eagle's biggest draw is its historic downtown, with vintage-style street lights along the main drag. The older section of Eagle is where you'll find tree-lined streets, wide lots, established homes and parks. Unique shops and eateries make it a popular gathering spot, and Eagle has kept its character while growing, thanks to careful city planning.

RECREATION ABOUNDS

Eagle's foothills, golf courses and Greenbelt provide ample opportunities for bicycling, hiking and other on-foot and on-bike fun. The Eagle Sports Complex is home to the Eagle Bike Park, with trails and features for a range of skill levels. Banbury Golf Course and Eagle Hills Golf Course are both located in Eagle.

Eagle Island State Park covers 545 acres, with a swimming beach, a picnic area and more than five miles of trails for horseback riding, walking your dog and disc golf. Seasonal offerings at the park have included winter snow tubing, paddleboard rentals and a zip line course.

The Eagle Saturday Market runs from spring into early fall in downtown Eagle. Listen to local performers as you browse stalls selling everything from prepared food and fresh produce to one-of-a-kind crafts.

SET APART

Eagle is a sought-after place to live in the Boise area thanks to its beautiful scenery, river access, abundant recreational opportunities and lively downtown.

EMMETT

EMMETT

EMMETT, IDAHO

Stunning Emmett, Idaho, is located just north of the Treasure Valley. Gorgeous vistas of the Emmett Valley's rich landscape await you as you descend into the valley. Emmett is a throwback to simpler times, with the Payette River running through it and the big butte north of town on the horizon. Everyday needs are right there within the city limits, making it a proud little town. Emmett suits anyone who values tranquil, small-town life, with local dining, medical care and schools close to home.

Emmett has grown gradually over the past decade while keeping its small-town scale. Boise is just over half an hour away by car. Schools and parks are close to many neighborhoods, and there is a lot of enthusiasm in town during the yearly Emmett Cherry Festival and at local high school football games.

SCENIC RECREATION AND FUN

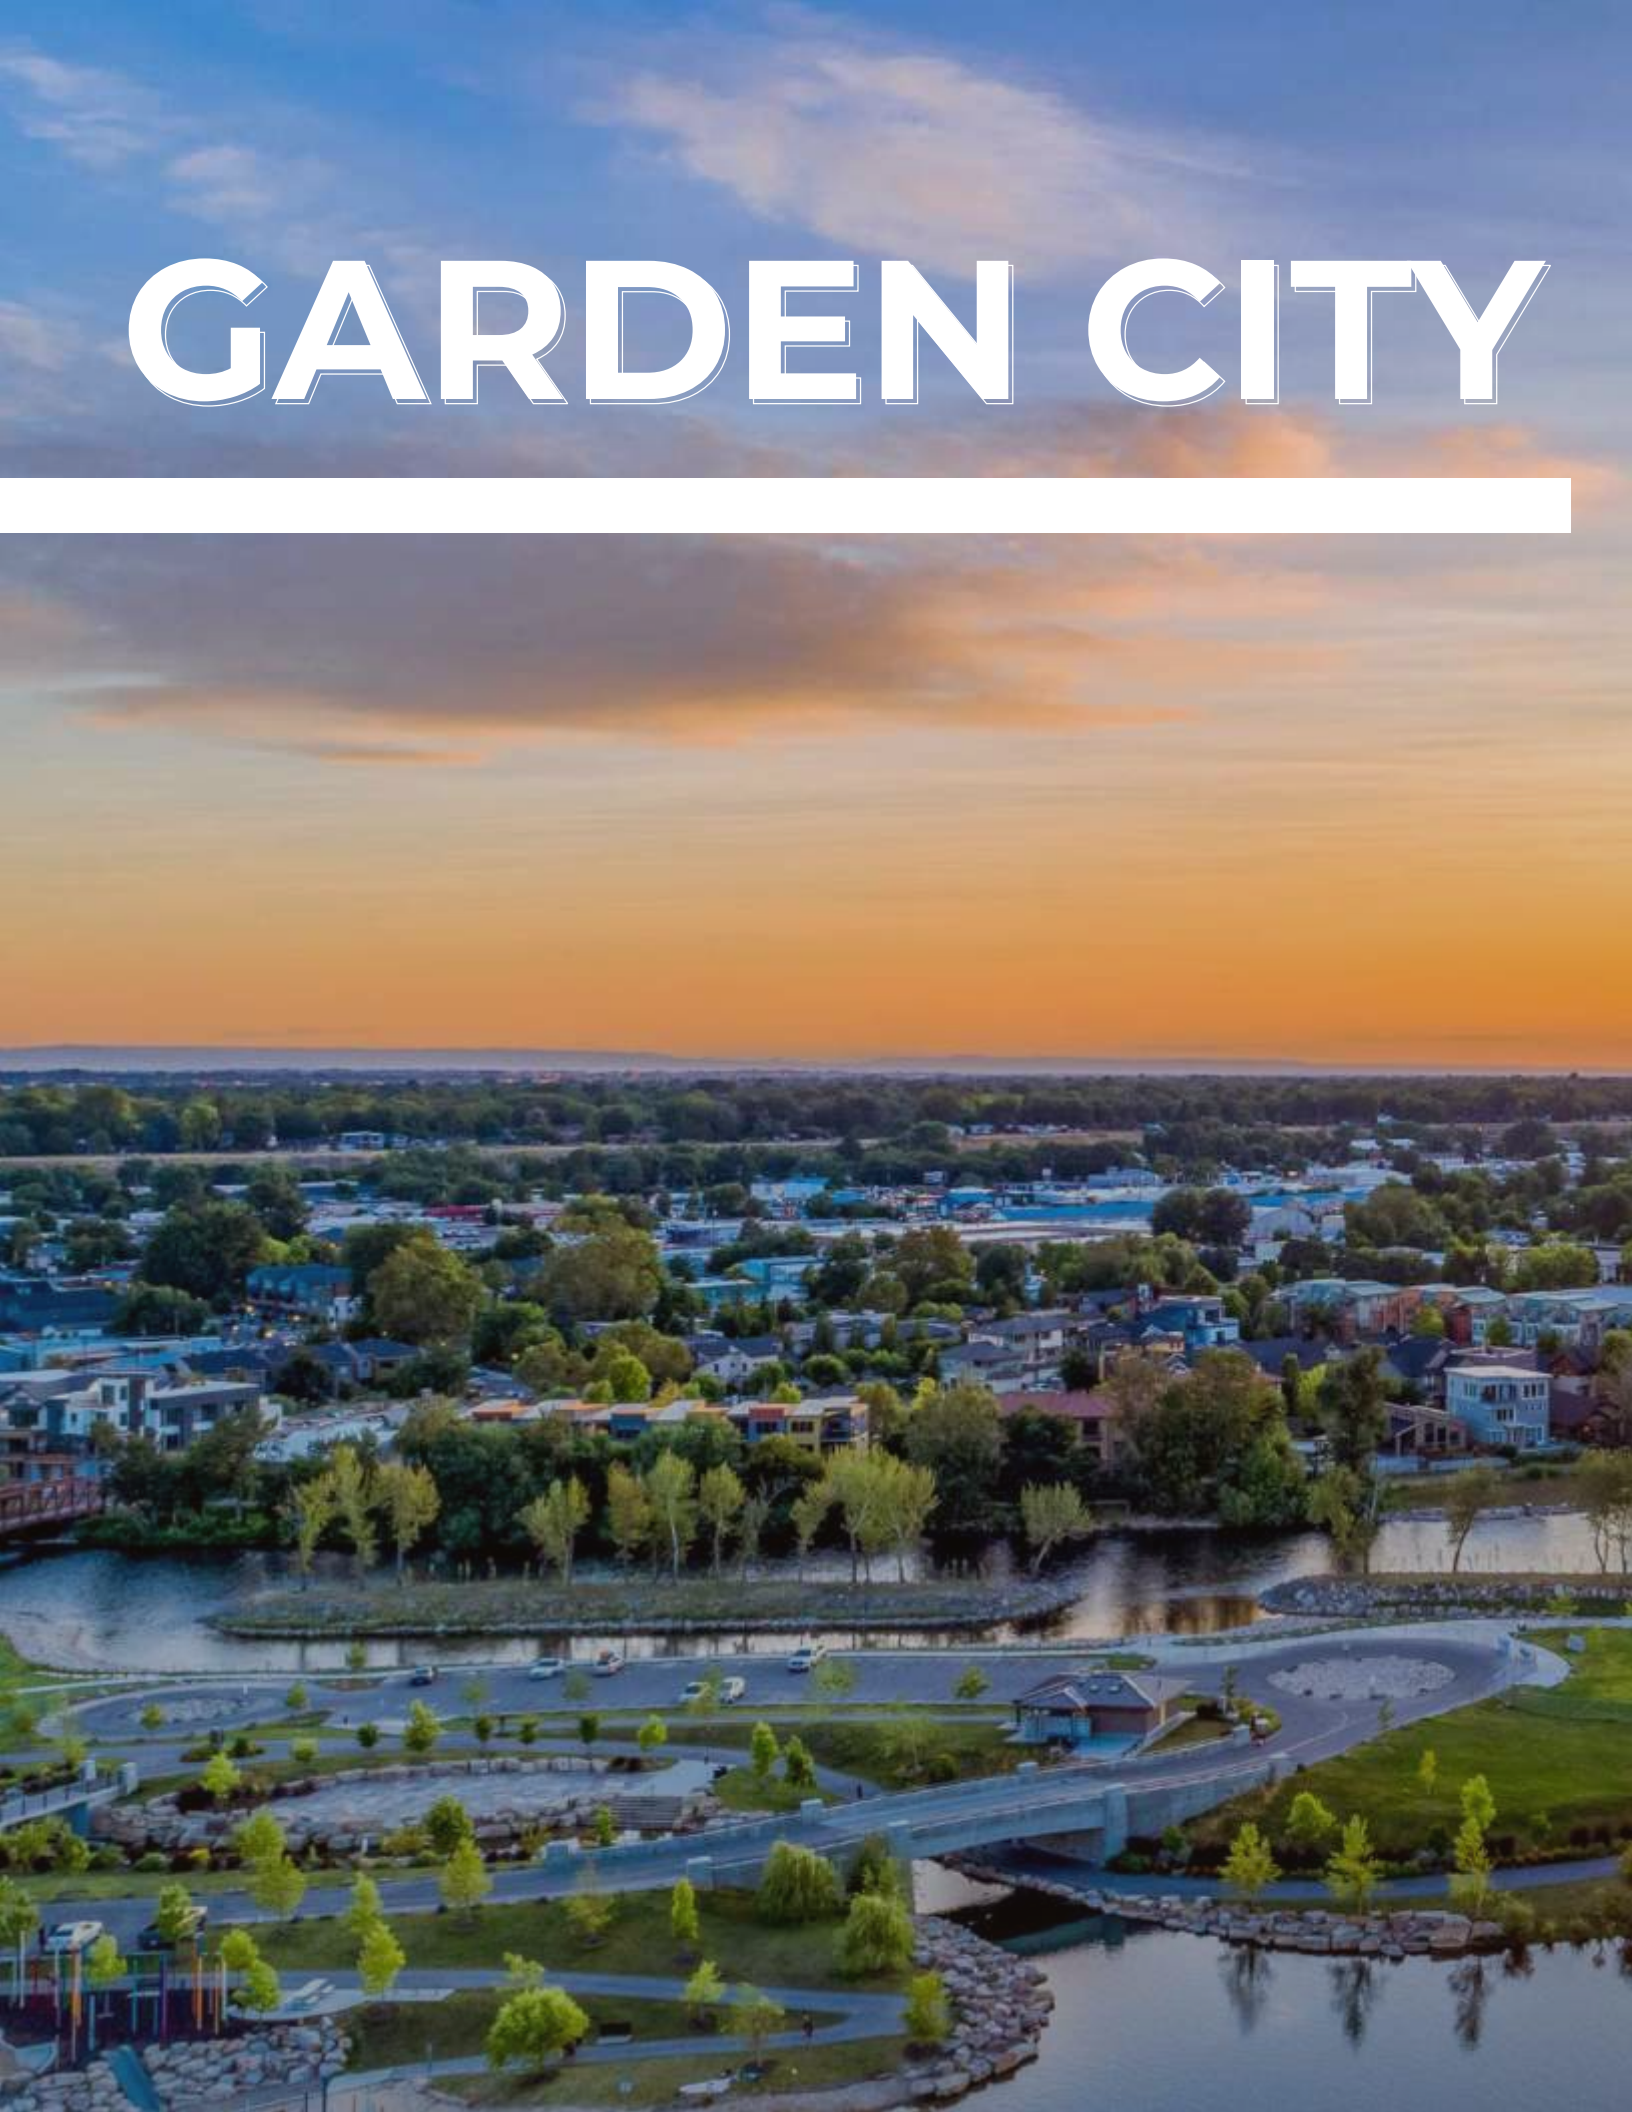

It's hard to find more rugged beauty than the area around Emmett. Sehewoki'i Newenee'an Katete, the big butte at the northern edge of the fertile Emmett Valley, rises roughly 5,900 feet above sea level and offers a beautiful view of the valley below. Campsites offer fresh mountain air and easy access to slow or swift river stretches with fish and wooded banks. Swimming spots and secluded picnic areas along the Payette River make it a popular destination for outdoor enjoyment.

Emmett is home to a wide variety of community activities in addition to its outdoor recreation. The spring opening of the Emmett farmers market is a much-anticipated annual event. In summer, classic cars roll into town for show-and-shine and cruise nights, and Gem County hosts a fair and rodeo. The Emmett Cherry Festival has been held for decades to honor the fruitful soil of the Emmett Valley.

Free activities, including parades and evening concerts, are offered as the town transforms into a lively festival. With its beautiful scenery, small-town feel and full calendar, Emmett is a great place to call home.

GARDEN CITY

GARDEN CITY

GARDEN CITY, IDAHO

Situated along the Boise River, with Boise to three sides and Eagle, Idaho to the west, this small community of slightly over 12,000 people maintains its own municipal government despite its proximity to both cities. The vast majority of people who travel between cities do so without realizing it. Despite its diminutive size, Garden City is bursting to the seams with exciting cultural offerings and exciting recreational opportunities.

When it comes to emerging cities in the Treasure Valley, Garden City is where it's at. Thanks to some great visionaries, this formerly looked-over city is now making a tremendous impact for arts, culture, outdoor leisure, and entertainment.

LIVE WORK CREATE

The Surel Mitchell Live-Work-Create District has expanded greatly over the past few years, making Garden City a mecca for artists of all stripes. Visitors to the First Friday Art Walk are free to roam from gallery to gallery and even into the homes of some of the featured artists to chat with them in an informal setting. Garden City is home to some of the country's most talented people.

CRAFT BREWERIES AND CIDERIES

Garden City is known for its craft breweries, cideries, galleries and artist studios. Rent a scooter and spend the day exploring the city's taprooms and maker spaces, or sample a unique IPA at one of the many nearby breweries.

FAIR TIME

The Western Idaho Fair is held in late August at Expo Idaho in Garden City, with time-honored events, big-name concerts and heart-pounding carnival rides. Beyond the fair, enjoy the area's parks, a climbing gym and nature trails along the Greenbelt or at Hyatt Hidden Lakes Reserve.

LIVING

Garden City puts you close to the action. Downtown Boise is just minutes away, the Greenbelt offers a car-free route along the river, and the city has a growing mix of restaurants, breweries and riverside spots to unwind. It's a great fit if you want an urban feel with a neighborhood scale.

KUNA

KUNA

KUNA, IDAHO

Kuna is a peaceful town at the southern edge of the Treasure Valley that has grown quickly thanks to its convenient location, yet it has kept its rural character and its emphasis on a simple life. The country landscape invites you to enjoy the outdoors, explore local pathways and visit neighborhood parks. You can go hiking in the desert foothills, ramble along the Indian Creek greenbelt, or head to the Snake River canyon country to the south. It's an easy place to stop and say hi.

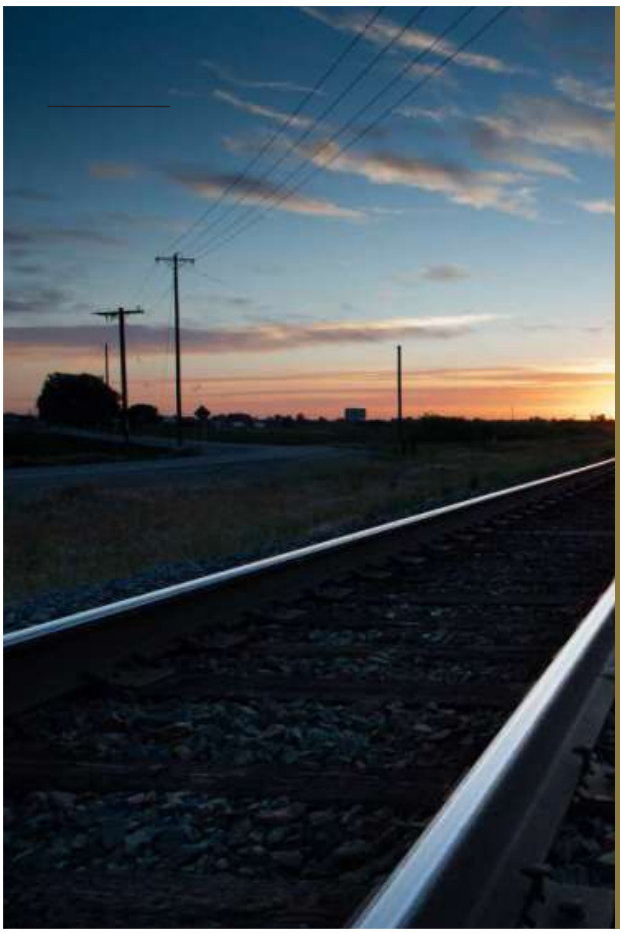

With its growing economy, Kuna now offers more everyday needs close to home. Residential growth has been matched by new restaurants, grocery stores and shops, changing the look of the area and making errands easier.

SMALL-TOWN CELEBRATION

Being part of both the past and the future is one of the joys of a thriving small town. Visit Kuna Days for some good, old-fashioned carnival fun. Bernie Fisher Park in downtown Kuna hosts the summer celebration honoring Kuna culture and heritage, and fireworks light up the night. There is a palpable sense of community-wide participation in this yearly event.

During the cold months, Main Street is packed with people braving the cold to watch the annual Down-Home Country Christmas parade. Locals will then count down to the lighting of the city's Christmas tree in Bernie Fisher Park.

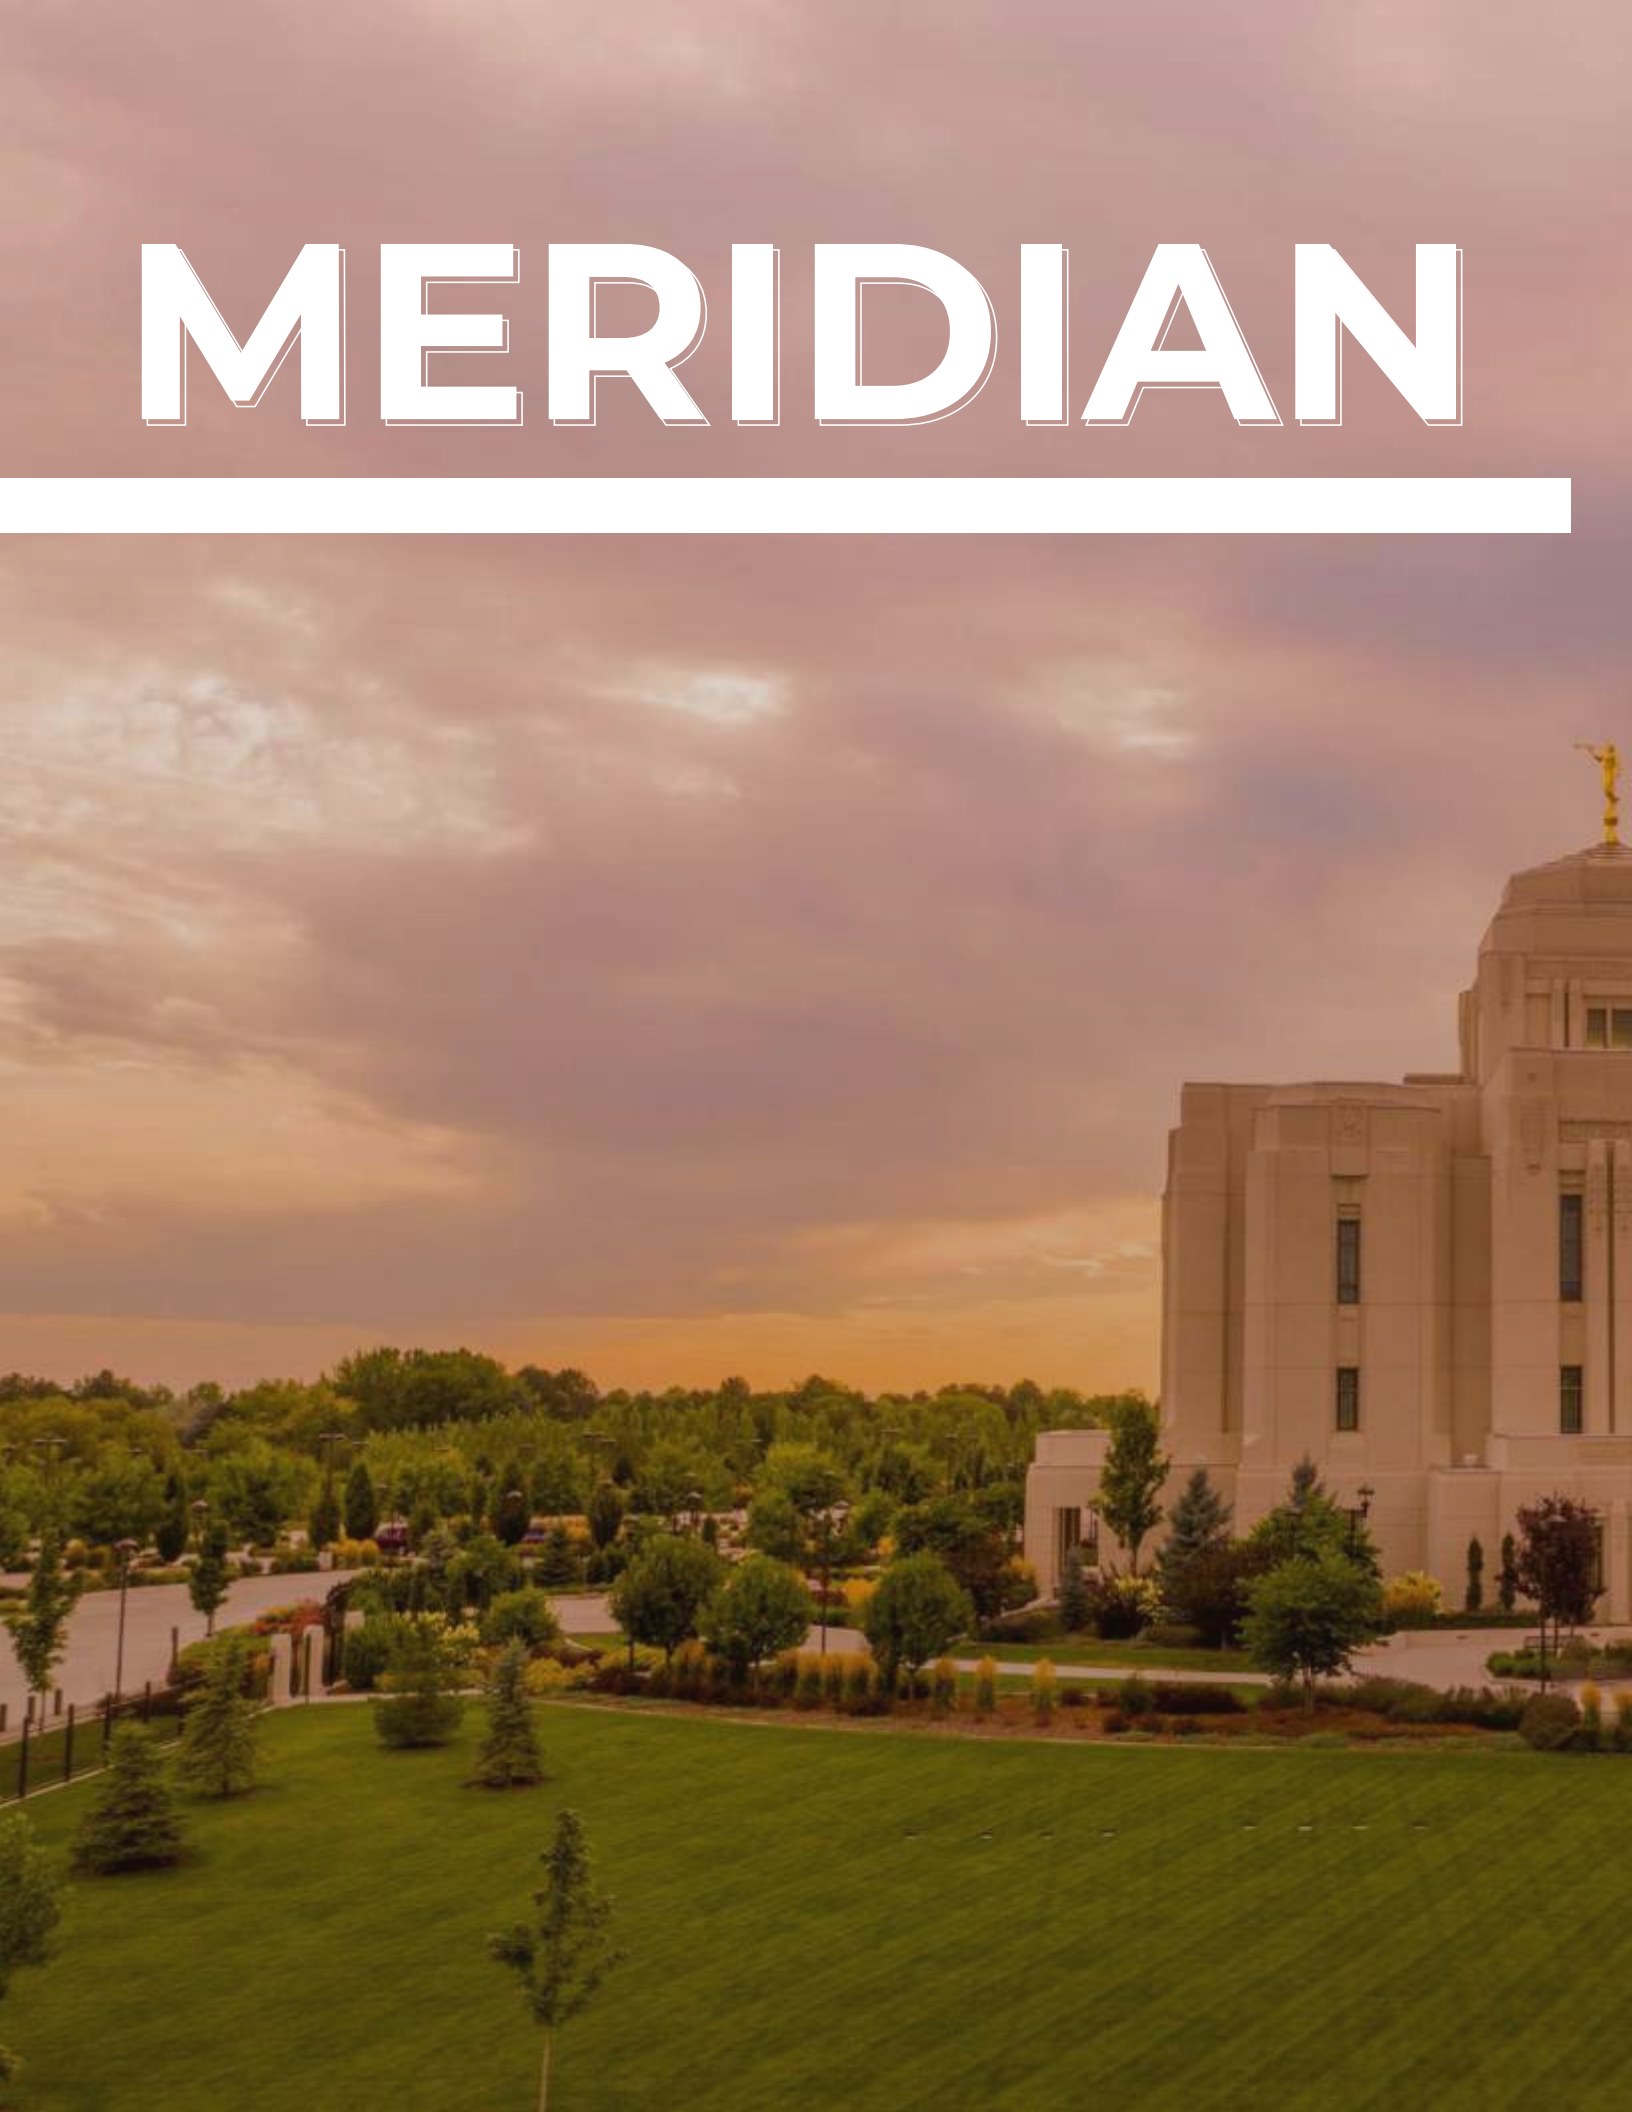

NEW LIFE

The revitalization of downtown Kuna has made it a popular spot for residents and visitors alike, as stores and eateries spruce up their facades and bring a homey vibe to the downtown area.

The Kuna Greenbelt is a large park in the middle of town on the banks of Indian Creek, with shaded spots among tall trees for a picnic. There are ball fields for Little League games and a splash pad for hot summer days. Much of Kuna's appeal comes from its rural setting and laid-back pace.

MERIDIAN

MERIDIAN

MERIDIAN, IDAHO

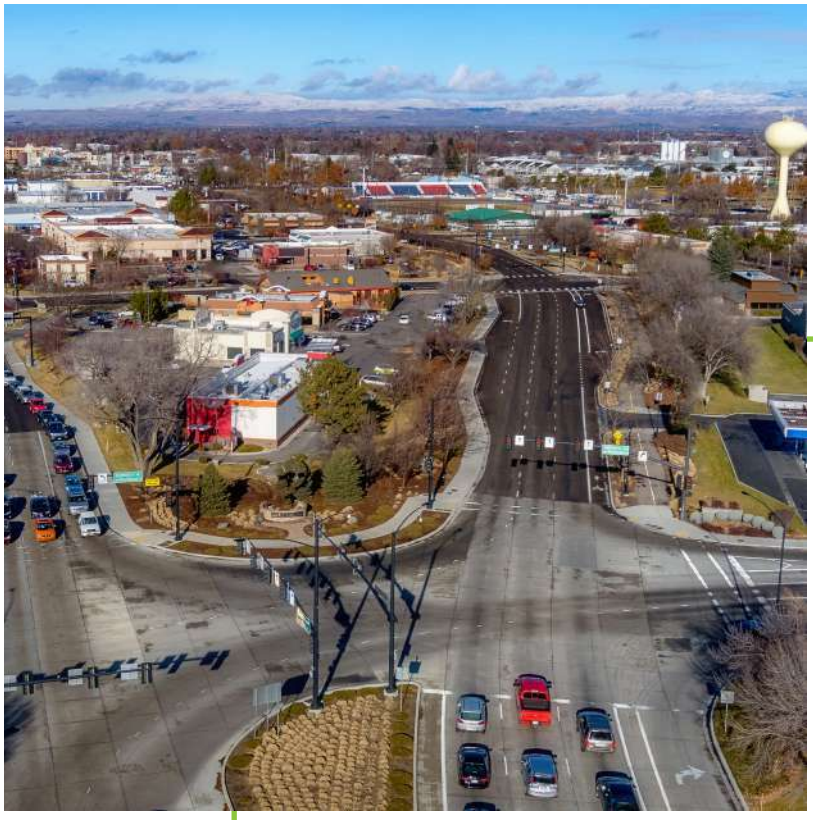

Meridian is a great choice if you want to be in the middle of everything. People are drawn to Meridian for its thoughtful city planning, business opportunities, eclectic selection of retail and central location between Boise and Nampa. Downtown community activities bring out a small-town atmosphere, and there are nearly endless places to visit and things to do with friends at any age. It's the kind of town where you can grab a snow cone at the corner stand and spend the evening at the park.

SHOPPING

Meridian has its very own version of a trendy urban commercial district. The Village at Meridian is a go-to spot for shopping, dining and more. The outdoor center features a variety of retailers and restaurants as well as a fitness center, bowling and an arcade. There's plenty of outdoor dining, a playground and a fountain show set to lights and music. During the holiday season, the center courtyard hosts a seasonal ice rink and a huge illuminated tree.

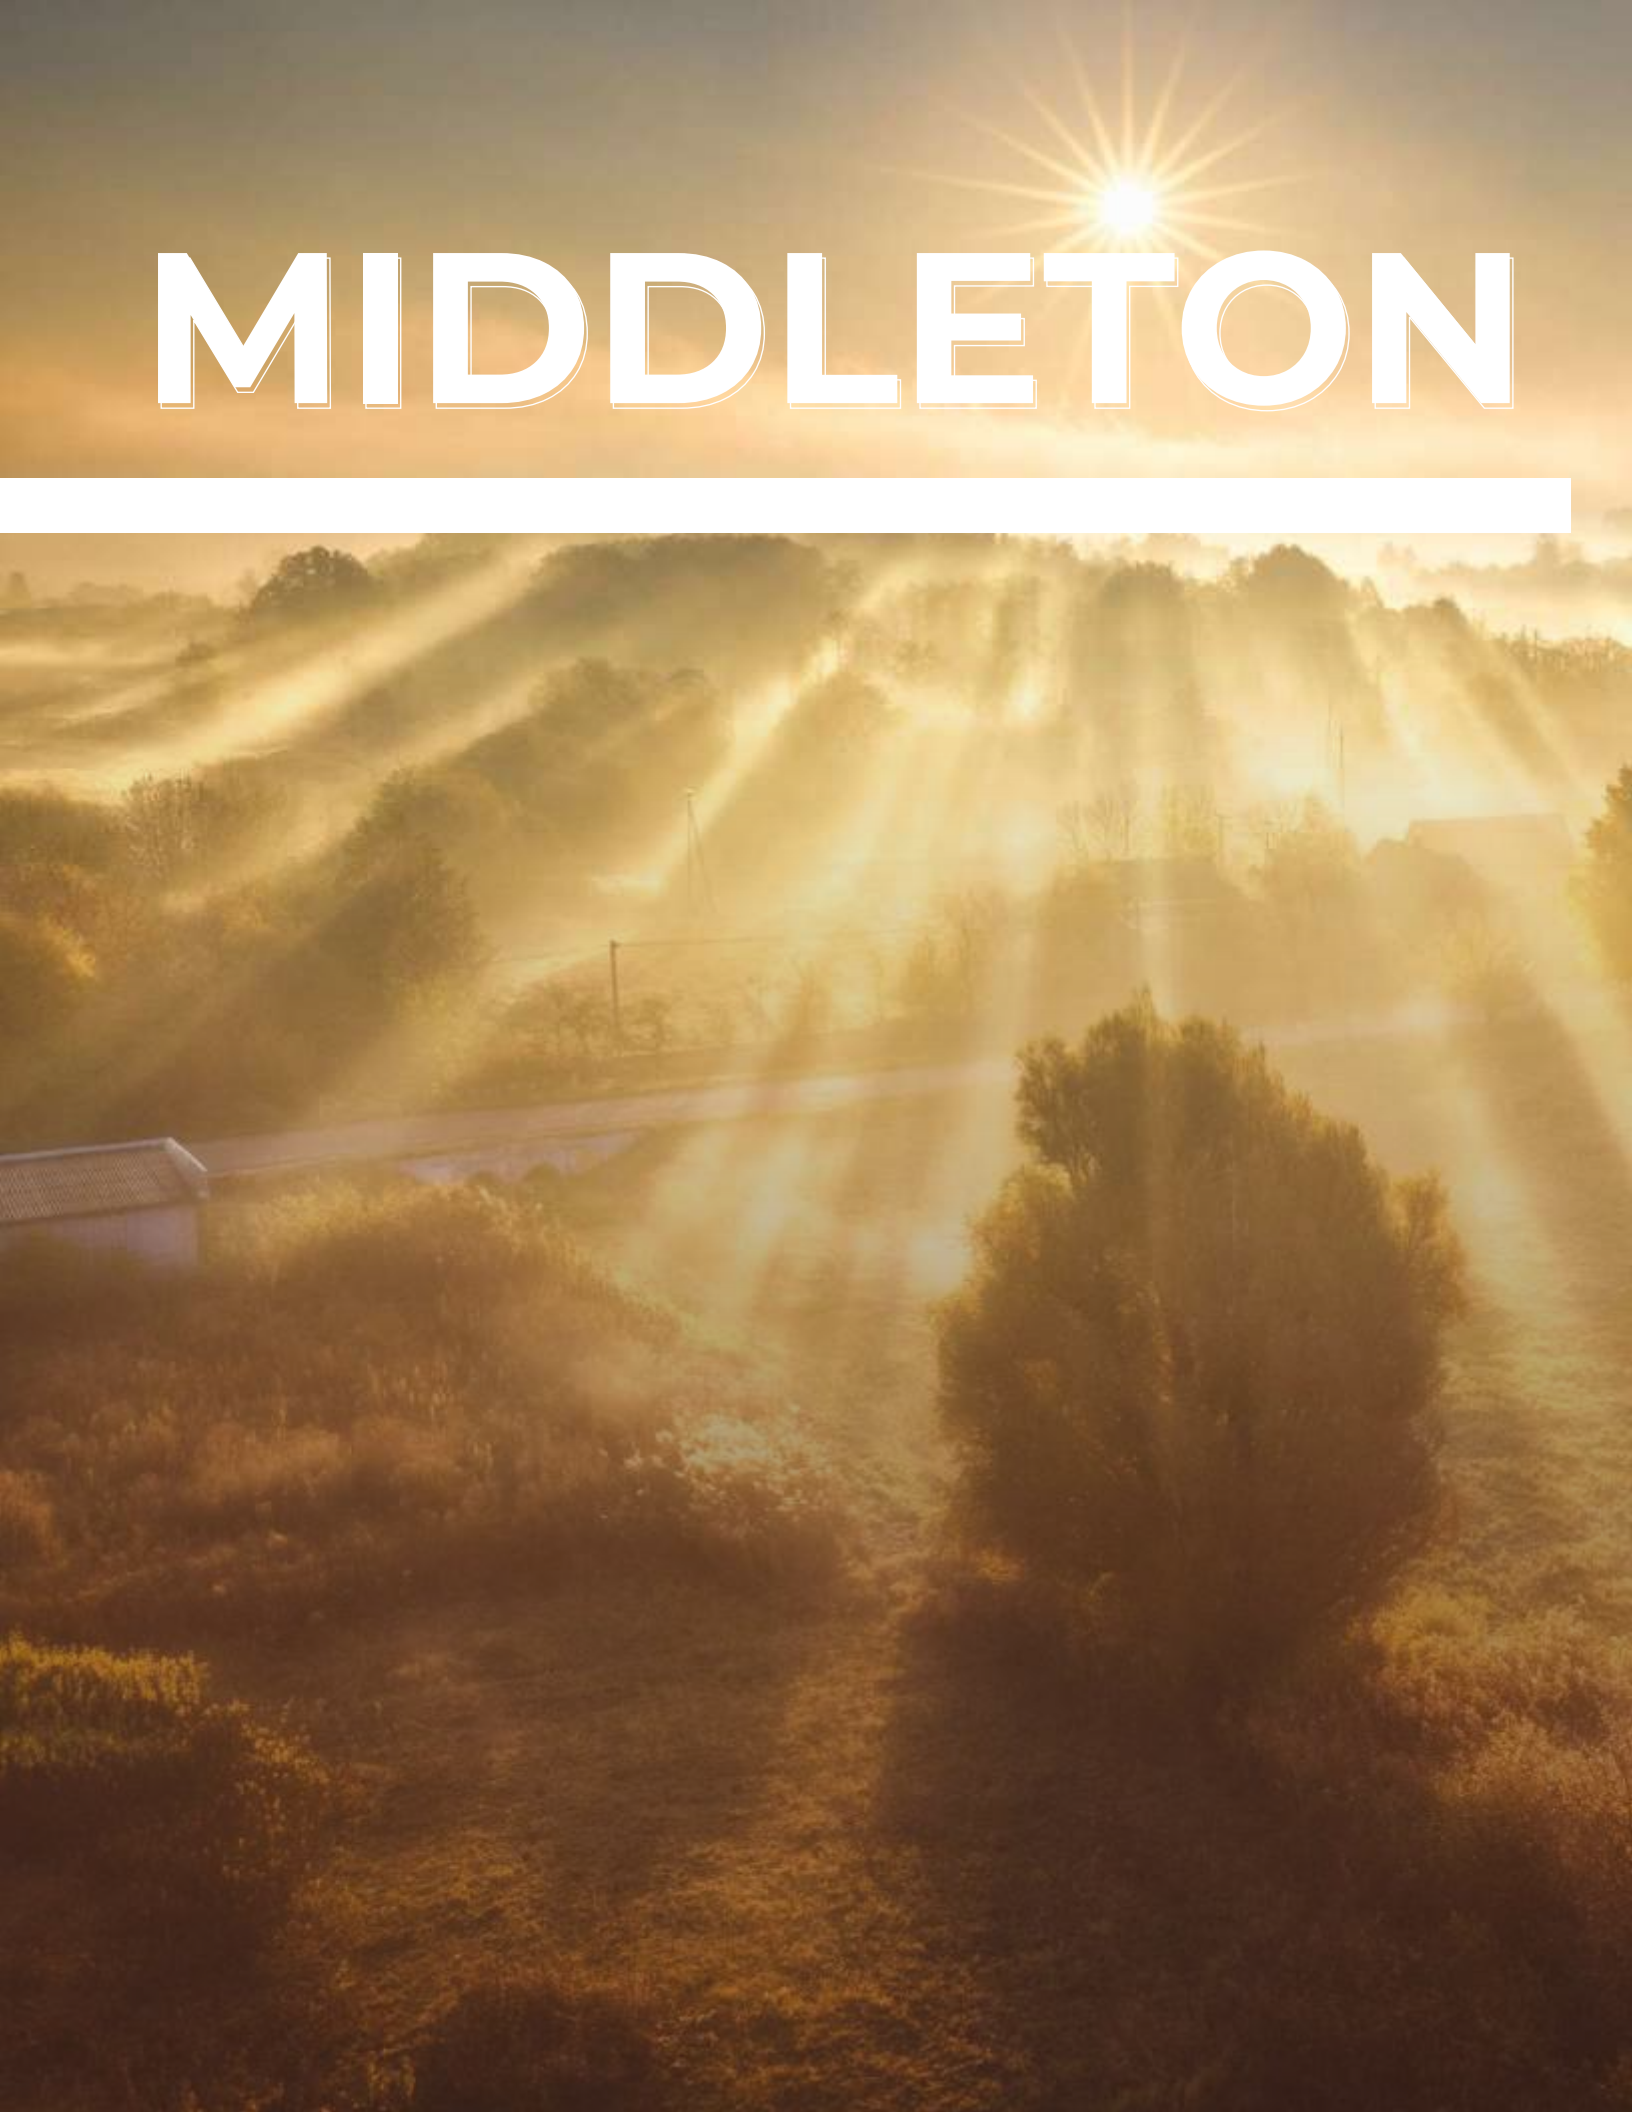

FUN FOR EVERYONE

Meridian Speedway, on Main Street in the heart of the city, is a summer hotspot for racing fans of every age. The Meridian area offers a wide variety of activities, including water slides, go-kart racing, laser tag and rock climbing. Some of the city's many public parks host free summertime events, including outdoor movies and concerts, and splash pads at many parks are a popular way to beat the heat.

IN THE MIDDLE OF IT ALL

Meridian is Idaho's second-largest city and a Treasure Valley destination for shopping, recreation and everyday convenience. The city sits in the middle of the valley along I-84, with infrastructure planned to accommodate continued growth.

MIDDLETON

MIDDLETON

MIDDLETON, IDAHO

Middleton is a genuine Idaho farming community within about 45 minutes of Boise's urban center. As you might expect in a town surrounded by horses and countryside, asking where to find the best old-fashioned milkshake is a common topic of conversation.

Homebuyers are drawn to Middleton's small-town atmosphere. Some older properties include land, barns and outbuildings, so acreage can be within reach. The town has grown alongside the rest of the Treasure Valley, yet it still retains a rural, low-key feel.

PARKS AND PLAY

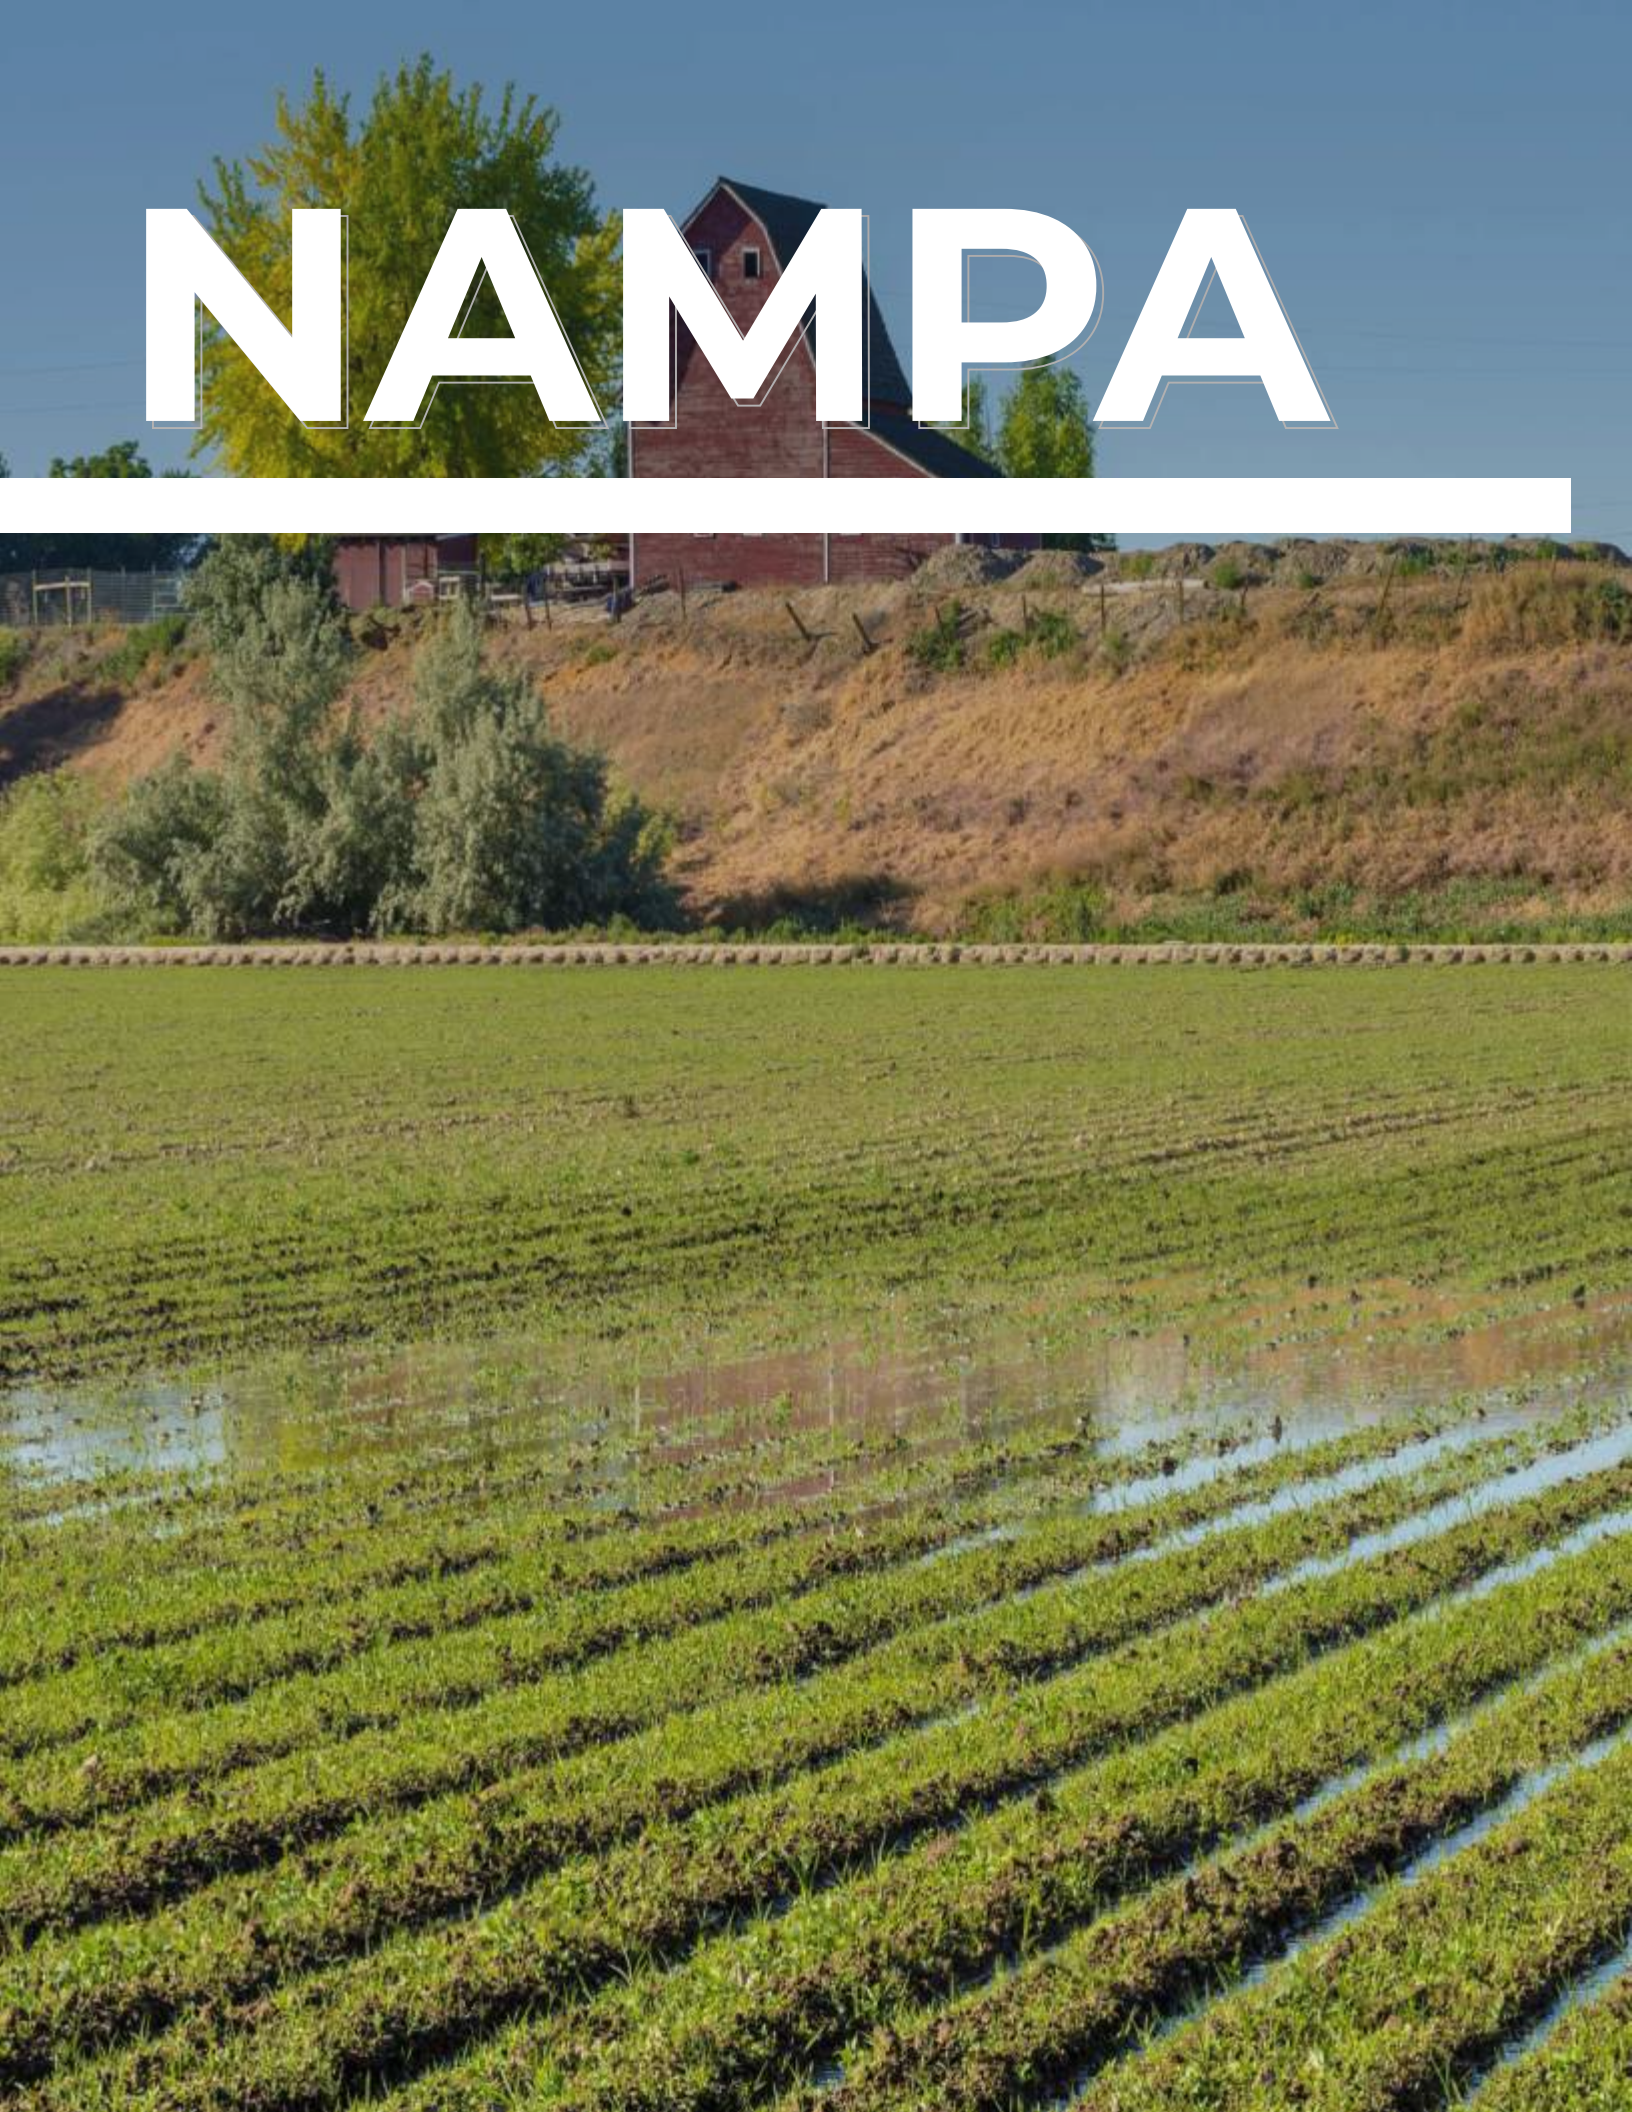

Middleton is served by the Middleton School District. To research schools for any address, start with the Idaho State Department of Education's report card at idahoreportcard.org and the district's own website.

This small town takes its parks seriously. The City of Middleton Parks & Pathways and the Greater Middleton Parks & Recreation District both help keep recreation close to home.

Middleton has several lovely parks. Piccadilly Park is home to a summertime farmers market, an interactive splash pad and a Grindline-built skatepark.

Free summer movies at Foote Park are one way the parks district keeps green spaces lively in this charming rural community. The Middleton Community Center, a refurbished elementary school gym, hosts community plays and sports such as pickleball, basketball and volleyball, with space for after-school activities and drop-in programs for all ages.

Middleton may be the most understated of the Treasure Valley's small towns, but it doesn't lack spirit or community.

NAMPA

NAMPA, IDAHO

Nampa is welcoming, outdoorsy and practical. It is the largest city in Canyon County and one of Idaho's largest cities overall, yet it keeps the charm of a smaller town and a low-key, down-to-earth feel.

Nampa offers easy access to a wide variety of shopping, dining and recreation without ever having to leave town. Housing ranges from newer subdivisions to historic downtown homes to acreage on the outskirts of town with views of the Owyhee Mountains.

OLD AND NEW

Downtown Nampa is flourishing. The 62,000-square-foot Nampa Public Library at Library Square is one example of the new life that has been breathed into this historic district.

There is a museum dedicated to the history of the Nampa Train Depot right in the heart of the city. This majestic historic structure was saved by a group of Nampa locals in 1972 to preserve it as a museum dedicated to the city's railroad history. Nampa's history extends back to the early 1880's when the Oregon Short Line Railroad established a line from Wyoming to Oregon, which went through Nampa with the fanciest railroad depot.

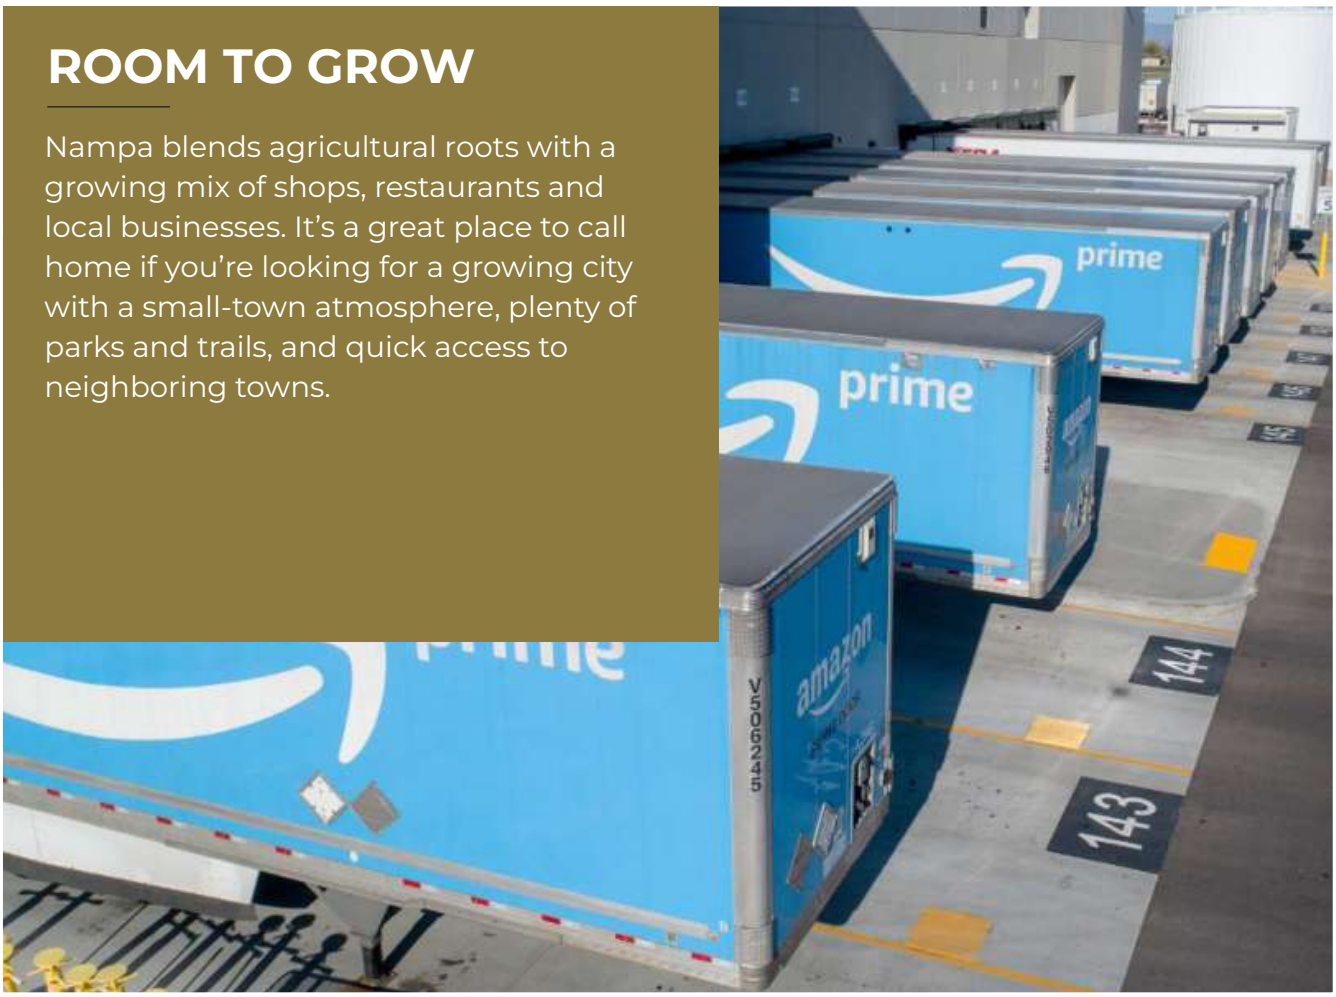

MUCH TO OFFER

There's a surprising number of activities and attractions in Nampa. The Ford Idaho Center draws visitors from all over southwest Idaho for concerts, rodeos and seasonal shows. The Warhawk Air Museum is a great stop for aviation fans. The Nampa Recreation Center is popular for its pools, climbing wall, gymnastics and more. The Nampa Civic Center houses the John Brandt Performing Arts Theater, and Lake Lowell is a haven for wildlife and outdoor activities.

ROOM TO GROW

Nampa blends agricultural roots with a growing mix of shops, restaurants and local businesses. It's a great place to call home if you're looking for a growing city with a small-town atmosphere, plenty of parks and trails, and quick access to neighboring towns.

STAR

STAR

STAR, IDAHO

Star is a small but fast-growing city known for its scenic open spaces, new subdivisions and equestrian properties. Star blends modern conveniences with country charm, and its fertile landscape, farmland and rolling hills give it a distinctly rural feel.

Over the past two decades, Star has expanded greatly in both population and physical size. Once separated from neighboring cities by farmland, it is now more connected and centrally located in the valley, yet it still feels like a small town.

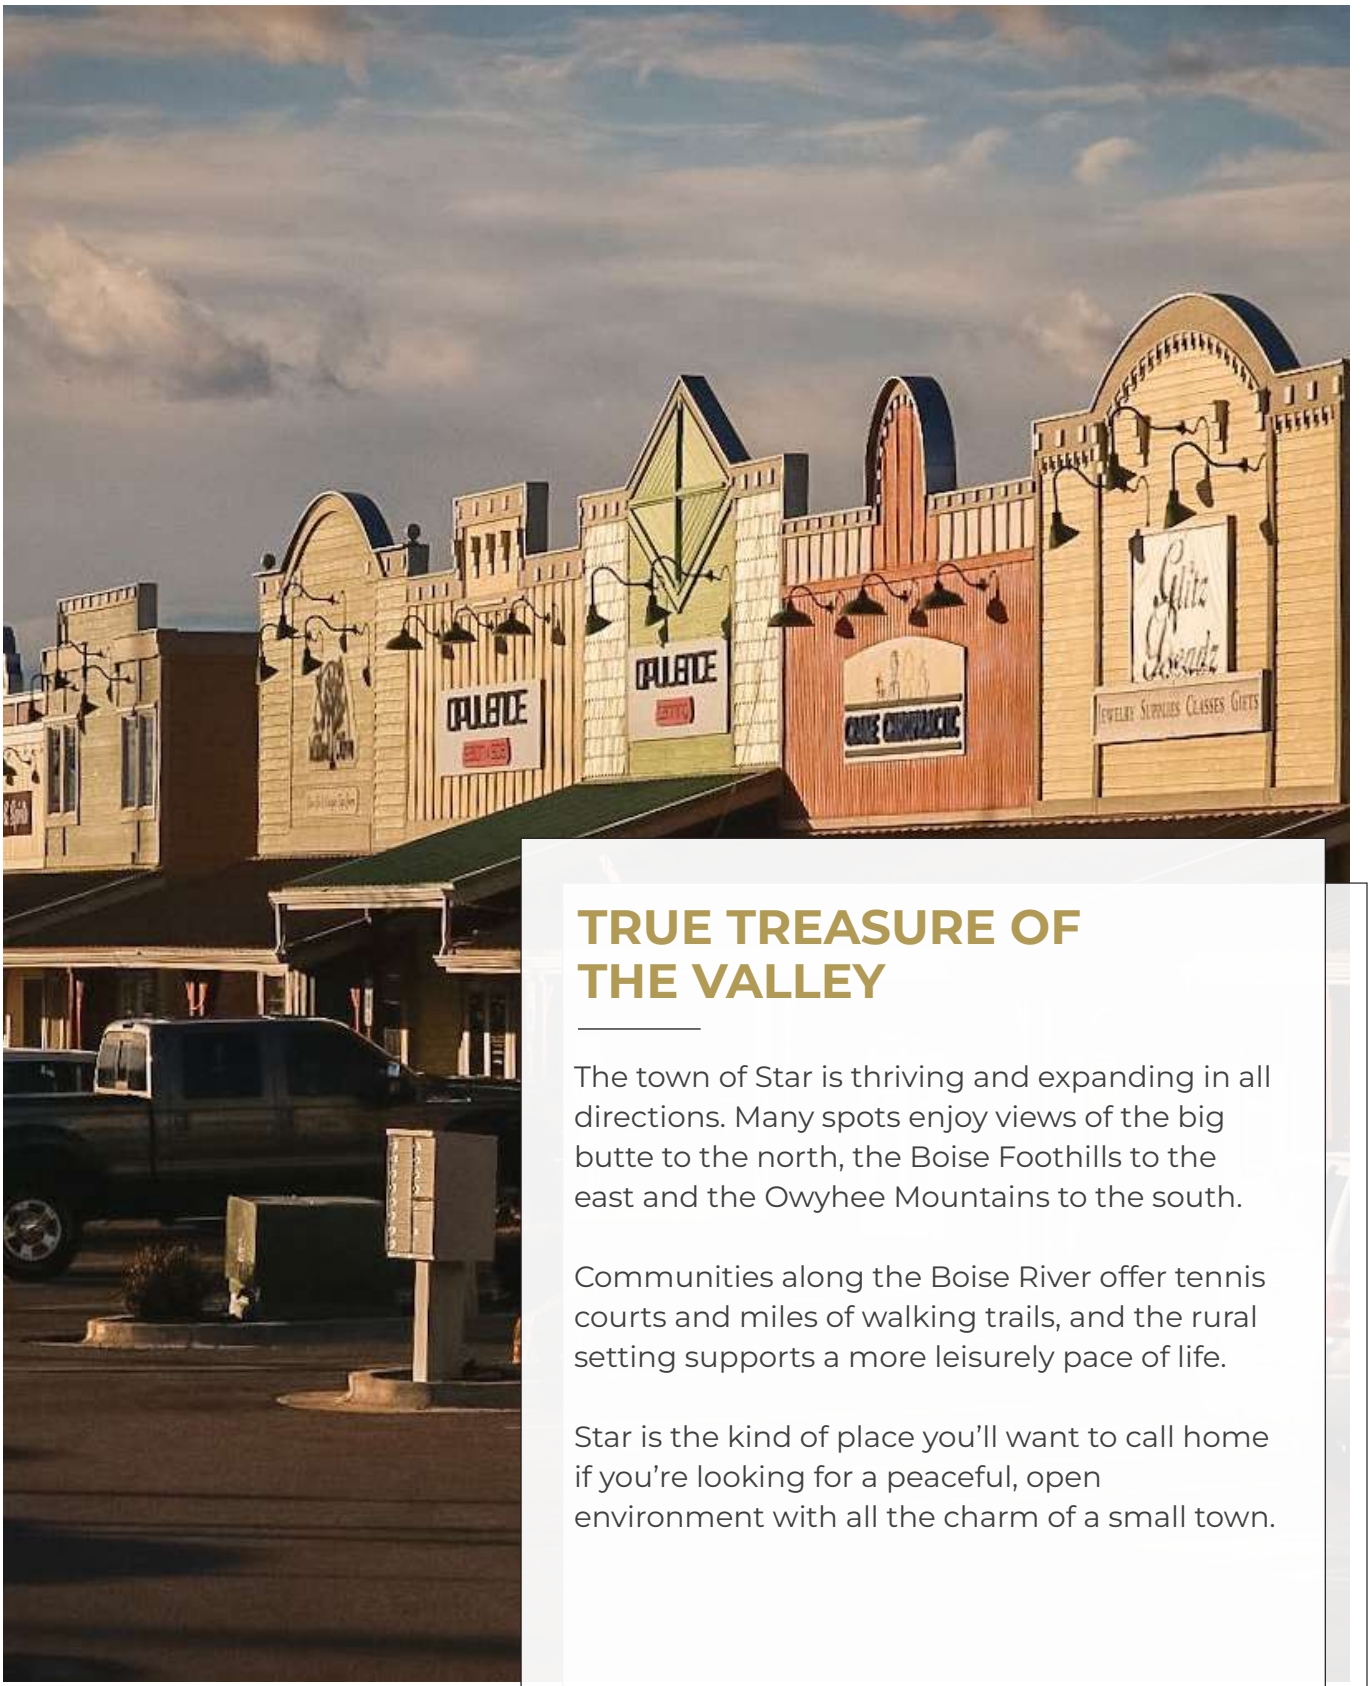

SMALL-TOWN SPIRIT

Star has a small-town vibe and a rural setting, and newcomers can get involved quickly thanks to a full calendar of community events. Locals know all about the hidden gem that is Star's River Walk Park along the Boise River.

Skaters of all ages gather at the neighborhood skate park, and summer movies are shown outdoors under the stars. Morning runs and dog walks along quiet roads are part of the rhythm here, and you just might run into the mayor at the gas station.

Star is a country paradise with the everyday amenities you need. It offers an authentic taste of small-town living with traditional celebrations, including its Fourth of July festivities and fireworks.

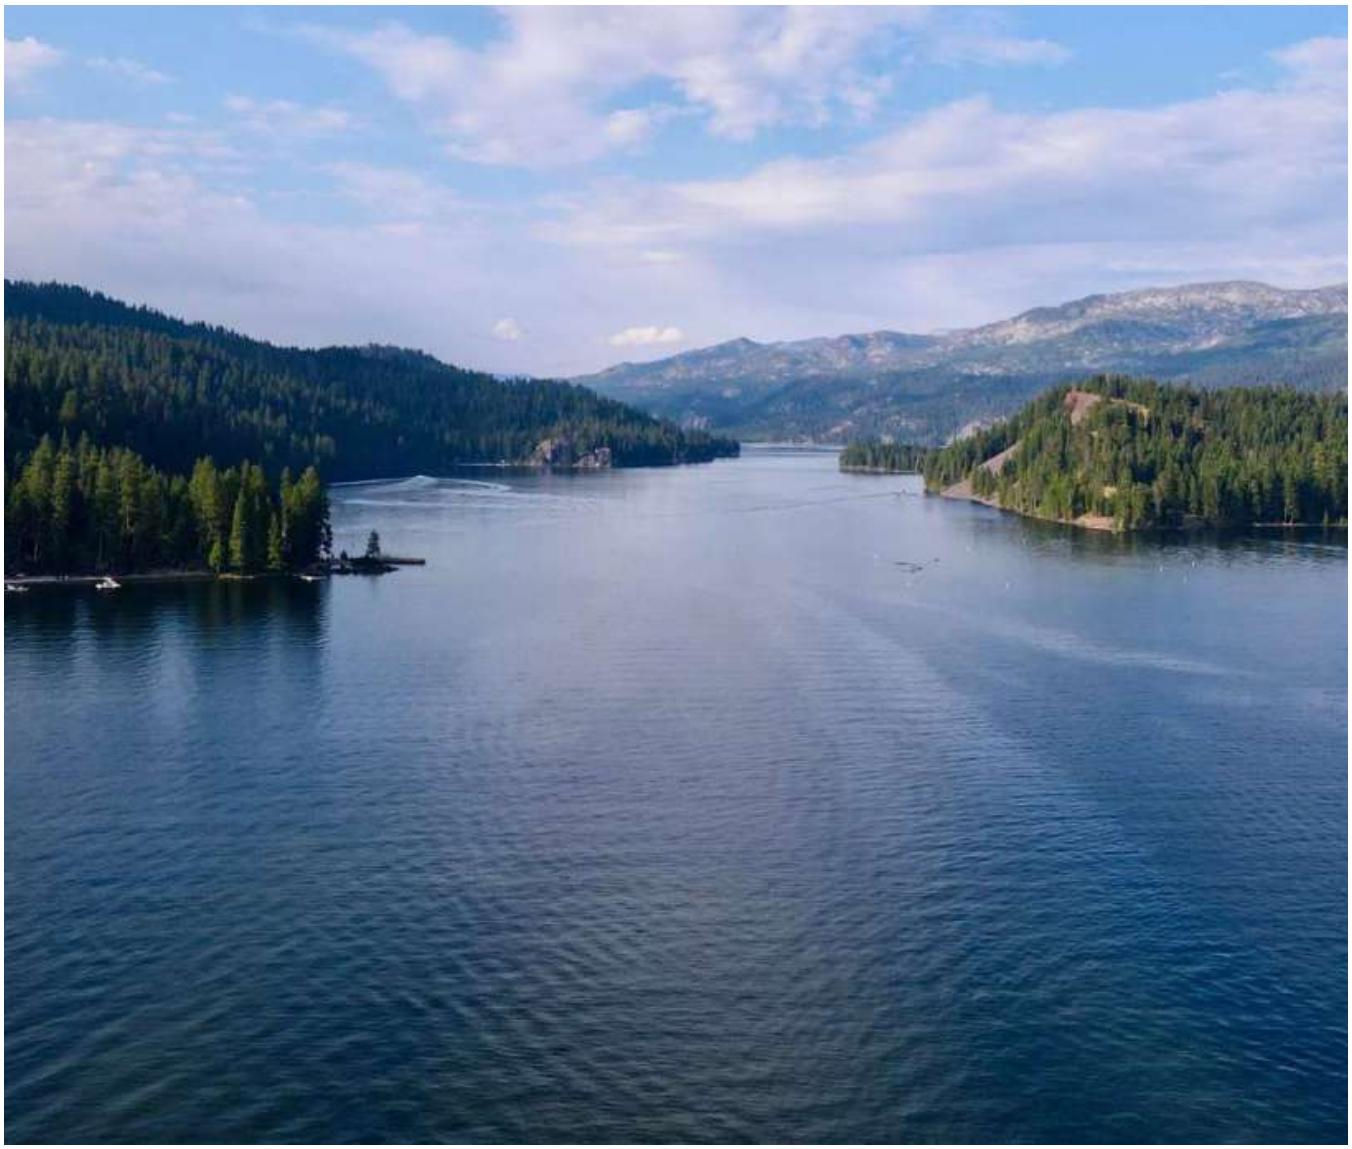

TRUE TREASURE OF THE VALLEY

The town of Star is thriving and expanding in all directions. Many spots enjoy views of the big butte to the north, the Boise Foothills to the east and the Owyhee Mountains to the south.

Communities along the Boise River offer tennis courts and miles of walking trails, and the rural setting supports a more leisurely pace of life.

Star is the kind of place you'll want to call home if you're looking for a peaceful, open environment with all the charm of a small town.

MCCALL, IDAHO

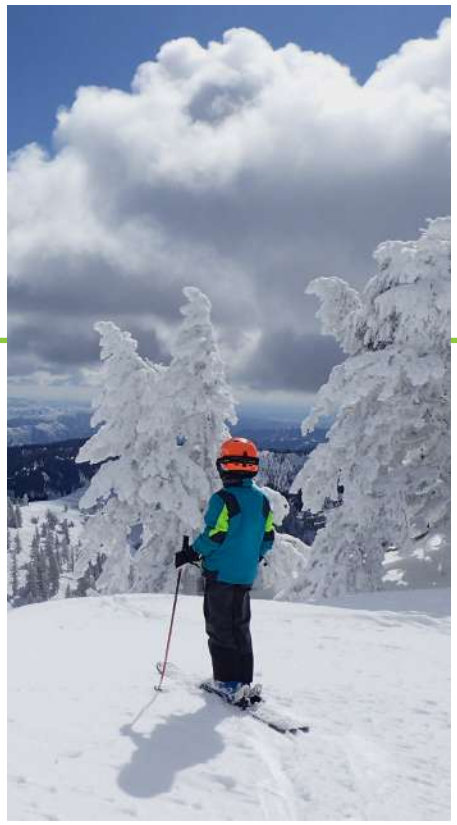

About two hours north of Boise, on the southern shore of Payette Lake, this resort town is popular all year. Water sports, hiking, golf and mountain biking fill the spring and summer, while skiing, snowmobiling and the annual McCall Winter Carnival draw visitors in winter. McCall may be small, but it packs a lot of adventure between its campgrounds, ziplines, concert venues and local restaurants. In the mountains, there is always something exciting to do.

BOGUS BASIN

Bogus Basin is a beloved recreation area for the city of Boise. In the winter, you can go skiing, snowboarding and tubing here, while in the summer you can go hiking, mountain biking and take scenic lift rides, and the mountain coaster runs in multiple seasons. The 16-mile drive up winding Bogus Basin Road shows the dramatic change in scenery, from sagebrush foothills to snow-covered mountain forest. Best known for downhill skiing, Bogus Basin is a recreational destination any time of year.

BRUNEAU SAND DUNES

Bruneau Dunes State Park is home to the tallest single-structured sand dune in North America. Explore the area on foot along the park's trails, or climb a dune and sandboard back down. You can camp, fish in the park's small lakes and, in season, visit the park's public observatory, all in one place.

SHOSHONE FALLS

Shoshone Falls is just outside Twin Falls, about two hours southeast of Boise. At 212 feet, it is 45 feet taller than Niagara Falls. Spectacular displays of crashing water can be seen from overlooks along the Snake River Canyon. Spring and early summer, when snowmelt pushes the flow to its highest, is the best time to see the falls.

CELEBRATION PARK

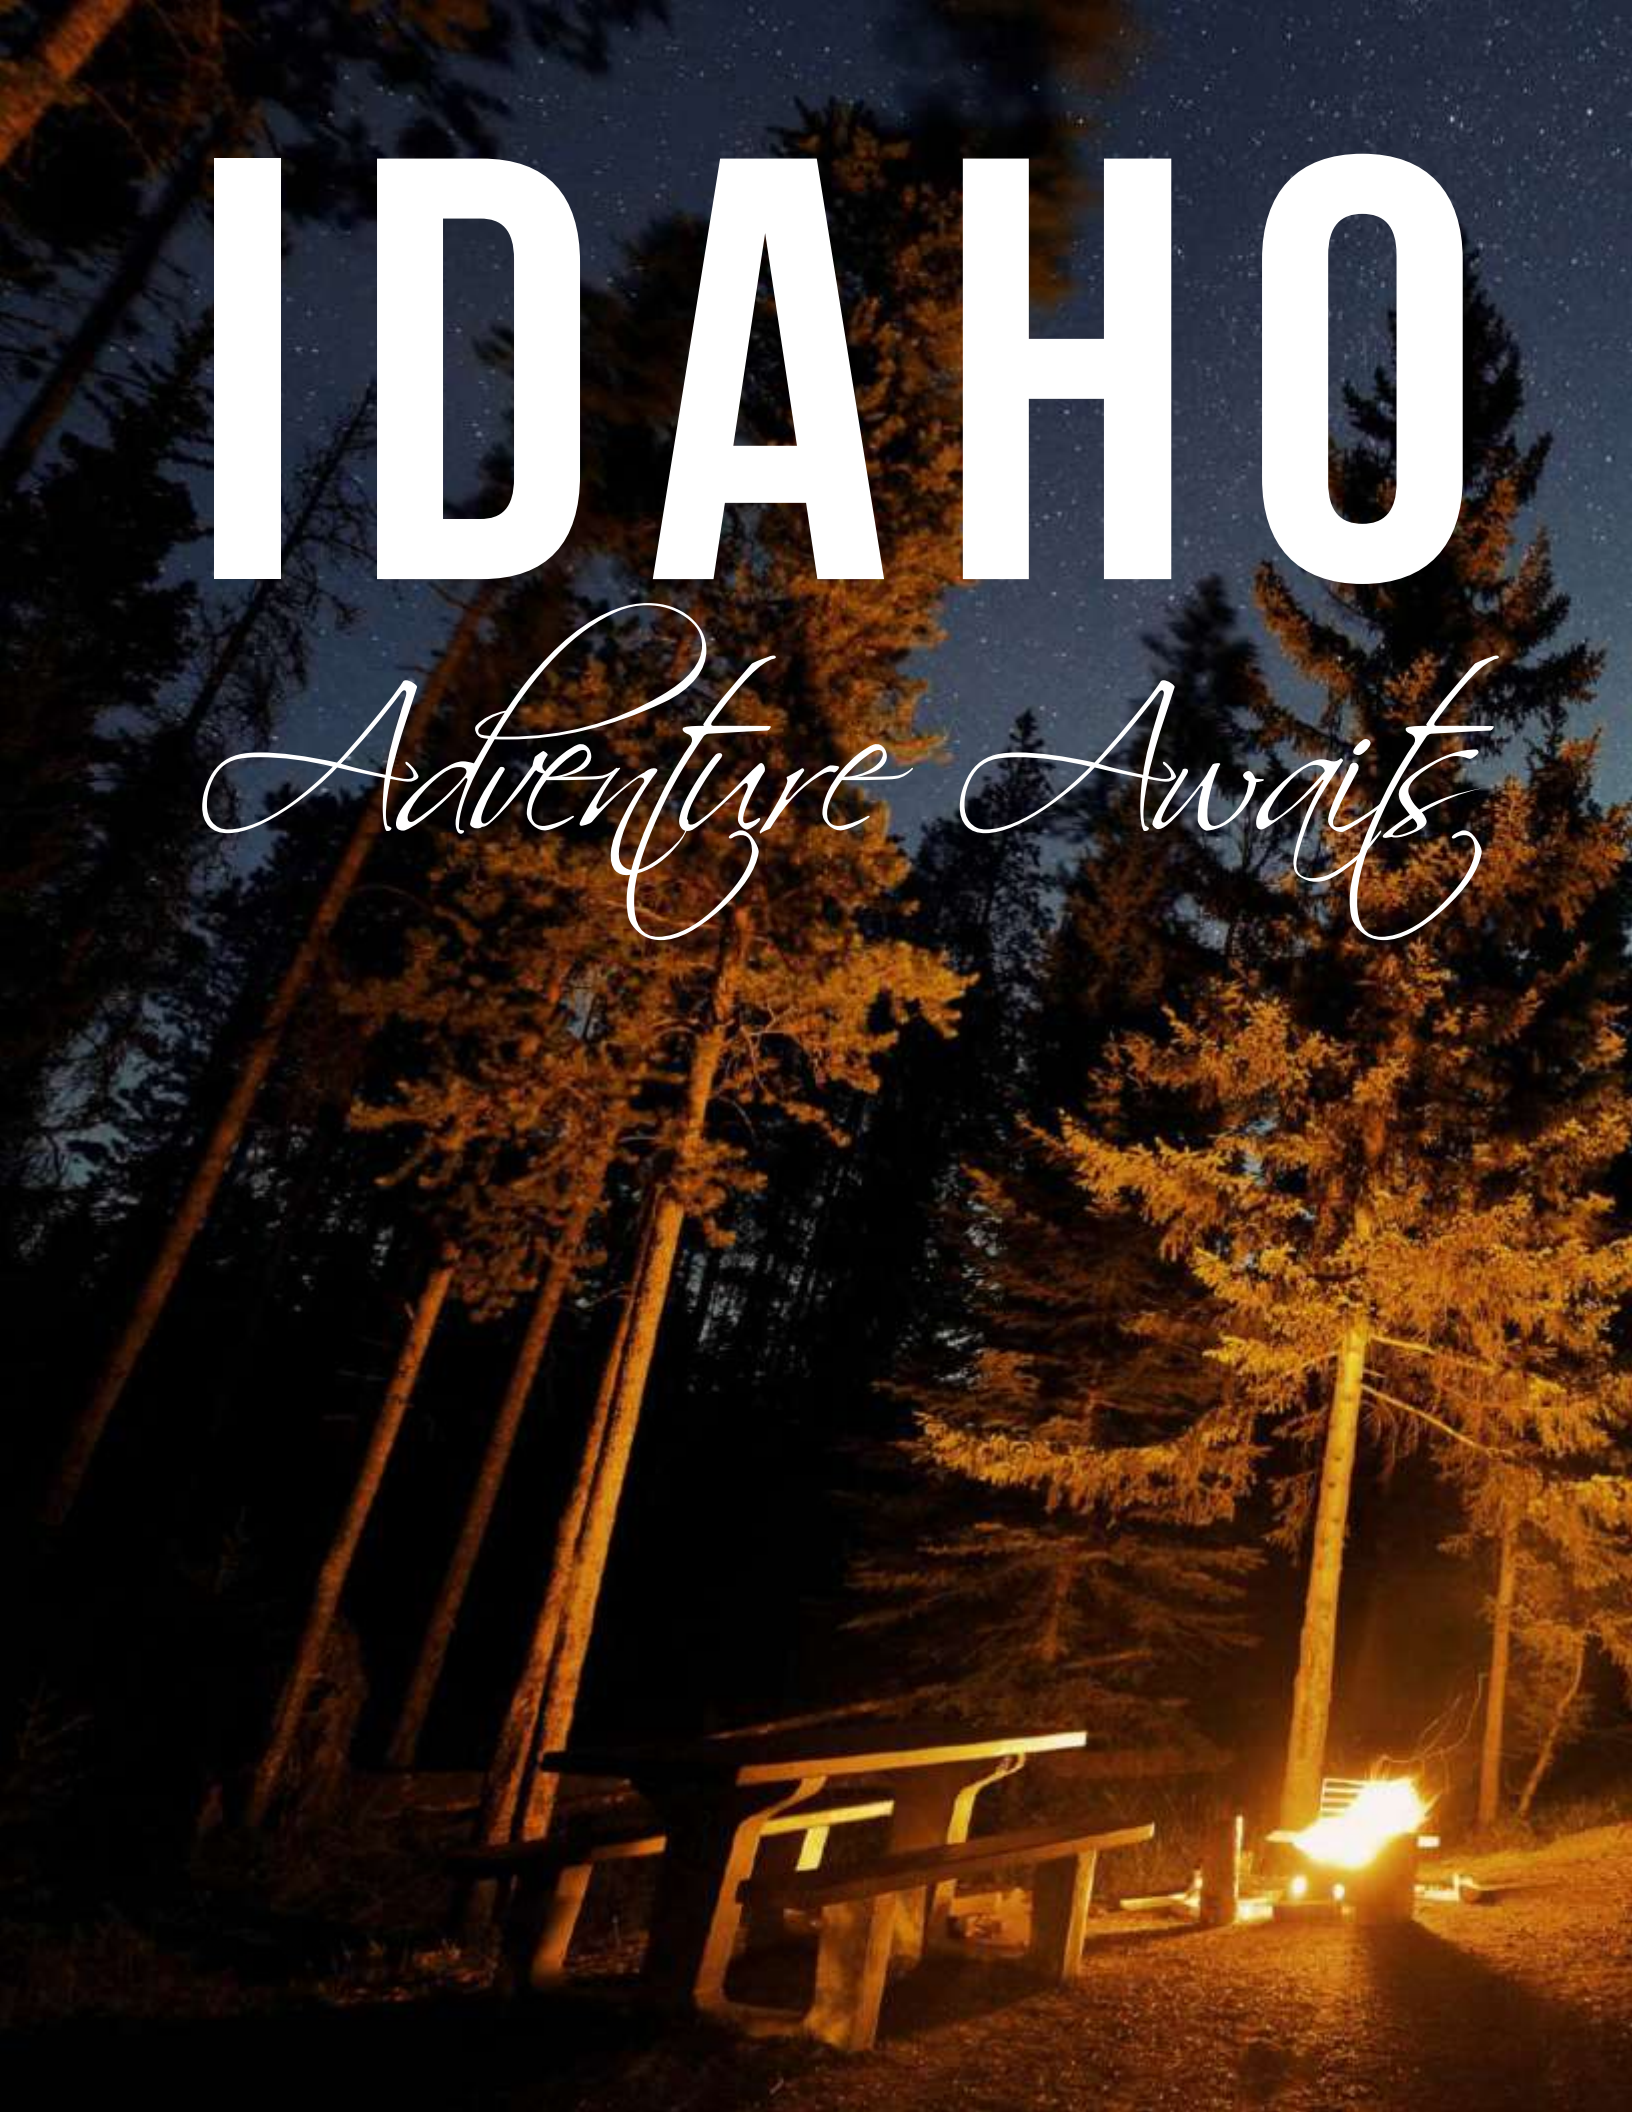

Celebration Park, on the banks of the Snake River, is Idaho's only archaeological park, and just the drive there is stunning. Explore petroglyphs carved into basalt boulders left by the ancient Bonneville Flood. Discover early mining and railroad history as you walk across the Guffey Railroad Bridge. With picnic areas and restrooms, it makes an ideal day trip.

CRATERS OF THE MOON

This lunar-like landscape is the result of thousands of years of volcanic activity and lava flows. Explore the depths of the terrain by walking on lava flows and descending into caves and lava tubes. Drive the 7-mile loop or walk the nature trails and look at the volcano's craters. A total of 42 tent and RV sites are available at Lava Flow Campground on a first-come, first-served basis. Craters of the Moon National Monument is a certified Dark Sky Park, making it a fantastic spot for stargazing from a campsite.

IDAHO
Adventure Awaits

CAMPING

Idahoans are hardwired to be campers; the outdoor lifestyle is deeply ingrained there. There are over 2,300,000 acres in Idaho that are open for camping, fishing, hiking, and other outdoor recreation. There are many well-kept campgrounds in Idaho, and many of them are located on or near beautiful lakes, rivers, forests, or even desert sand dunes. There are plenty of undeveloped, natural areas throughout the state that are perfect for free-range camping. The hardest part will be deciding where to set up camp; there are plenty of beautiful options, such as by a peaceful mountain lake, a bubbling river, soothing hot springs, or deep in the woods..

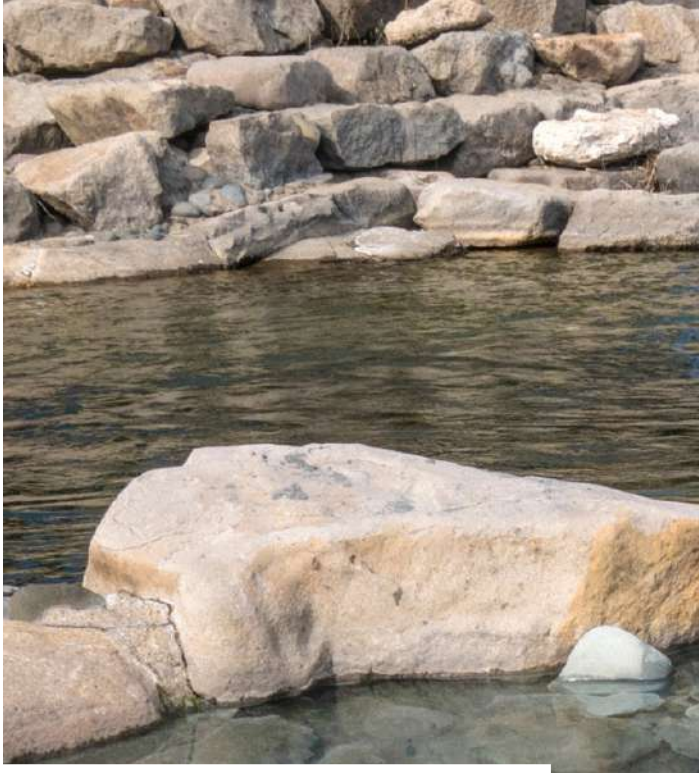

FISHING

With the fishing opportunities in Idaho, you'll have plenty of stories to tell your friends back home. Rainbow trout are stocked in local community ponds, and the Boise River offers trout fishing right through town. Bass lakes, trout streams and rivers with steelhead and salmon runs are all within driving distance of Boise. Don't be surprised to see someone casting a line on a lunch break. Anglers in Idaho take their sport seriously.

GOLF

Dozens of golf courses are spread across the Treasure Valley, making a round of golf a convenient weekend activity. You'll find courses to fit your time, budget and skill level, from championship layouts to a 36-hole scenic course to affordable municipal fairways. Take in beautiful views of the Owyhee Mountains, the valley floor and the Boise foothills. Sun Valley, McCall and Coeur d'Alene are all within a day's drive for a golf getaway.

HIKING

The Boise Foothills provide a beautiful backdrop for the Ridge to Rivers trail system, with more than 210 miles of trails that may sway you to take up hiking if you aren't already a hiker. Many trails around the valley are suitable for beginners. Table Rock is one of the best-known hikes in the Boise area because it is so close to the city center, and a breathtaking panorama of the city and valley awaits at the top. You'll find everything from easy strolls along flat paths to challenging ascents.

HOT SPRINGS

There is a wide range of sizes, temperatures, and types of natural hot springs in Idaho. A day or overnight trip to a hot springs retreat in the mountains or amongst rock formations would be an unforgettable experience for any traveler. These thermal springs can be found on public land, typically in the wilderness or National Forests. In Idaho, it is common to find free public hot springs. Developed commercial hot springs on private land typically charge a fee due to the inclusion of modern conveniences like pools of varying temperatures, showers and bathhouses, beverage service, and the like, and are typically open for business for the vast majority of the year. Indulging in a relaxing hot spring soak in Idaho is like taking a vacation for your mind and body.

HUNTING

Idaho offers a wide variety of game species, from upland birds and small game to big game and highly prized trophies. Roughly 60% of Idaho is public land, so there are plenty of places to hunt. Deer, elk, black bear, pronghorn, mountain lion and wolf can be hunted with general season tags or in controlled hunts, while moose, bighorn sheep and mountain goats are available through limited, highly managed hunts. Check Idaho Fish and Game for current seasons and rules.

MOUNTAIN BIKING

Great mountain biking isn't far away. Take your bike along on weekend trips, wherever you may be going. In and around Boise, you'll find a wide variety of trails to suit your needs in terms of difficulty, distance and overall experience. Many shorter trails run through the open foothills, while longer rides climb into the trees and open up to expansive valley views. Riders of all experience levels will find plenty of fun on Idaho's trails.

OFF-ROADING / SNOWMOBILING

Off-roading in Idaho is a thrill for any rider, whether on skis or wheels. The Boise Foothills and Boise Ridge provide off-road enthusiasts with a great place to explore within the city limits of Boise. Downhill travel in these regions is not for the faint of heart. You can easily get lost when exploring just minutes from your trailhead. It's possible to have a great time in the area because it has hundreds of miles of dirt roads and trails ranging from easy to difficult. Skis and snowmobiles are common winter accessories, as snowmobiling is a popular pastime in this region. The backcountry of Idaho becomes a snowmobiler's paradise every winter, complete with groomed trails and miles upon miles of untouched snow in the midst of breathtaking vistas.

WHITEWATER RAFTING

In the height of summer, the Payette River is ideal for whitewater kayaking and rafting trips of any length. The North and South Forks of the Payette feature heart-pounding Class IV and V rapids, while "The Main," as it is known locally, offers whitewater up to Class III. Farther afield, the Middle Fork of the Salmon River near Stanley is a bucket-list multi-day rafting trip. Whitewater in Idaho is the pinnacle of river sports.

Local FUN

PARKS

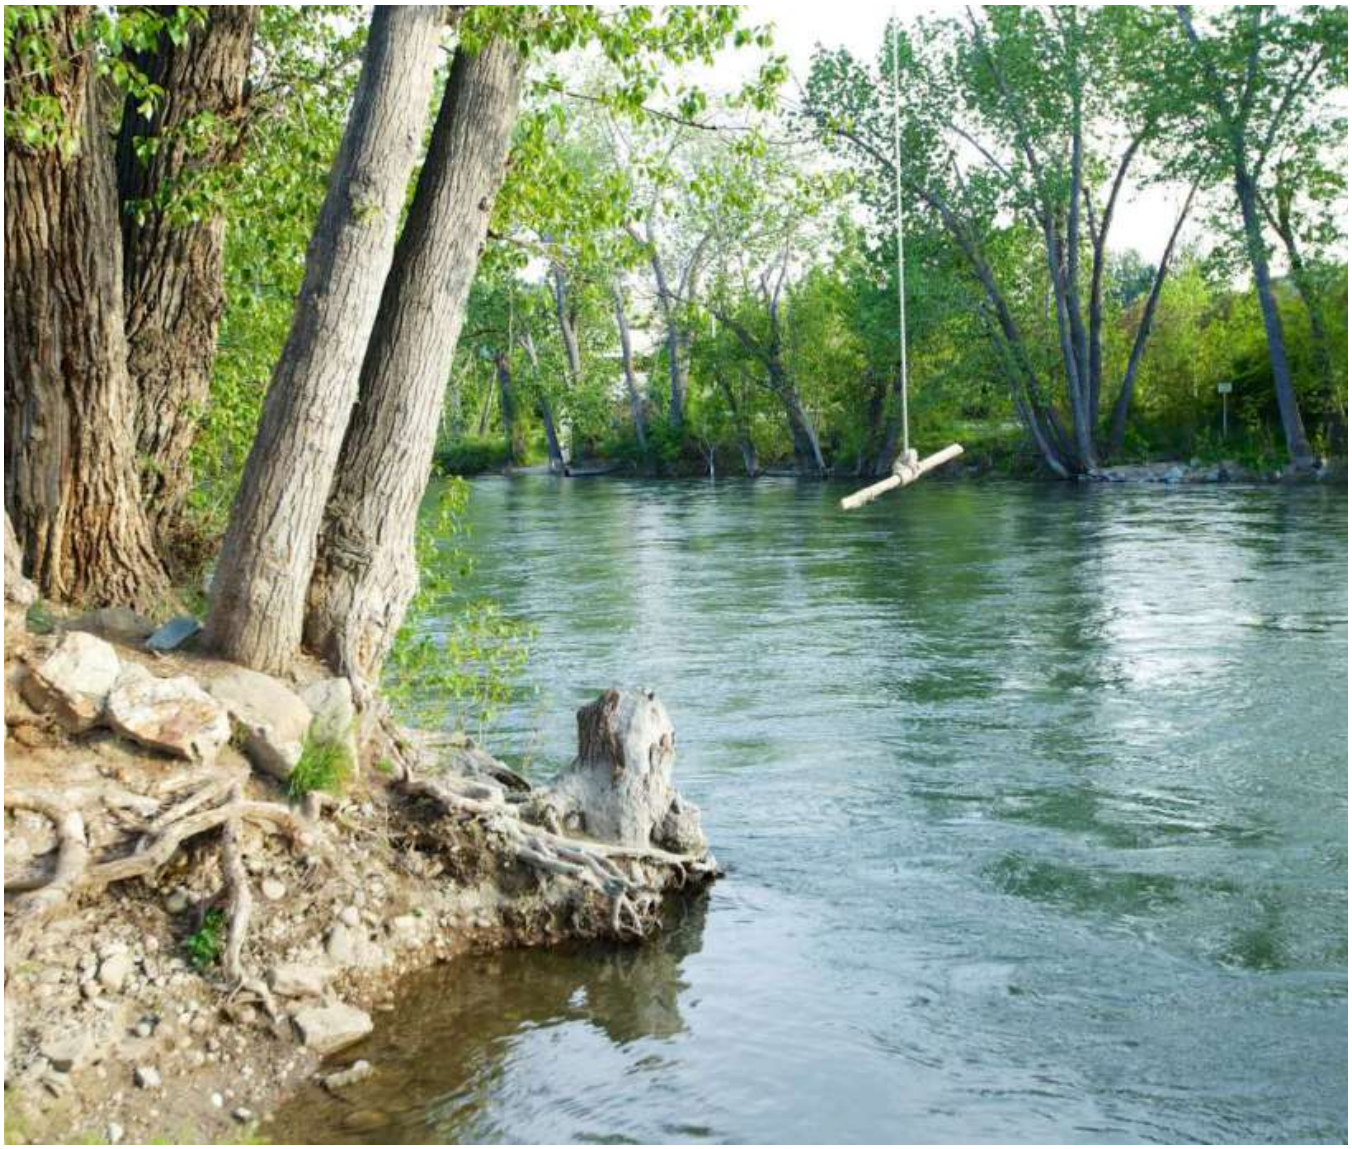

The Treasure Valley is home to countless parks for outdoor recreation and exploration, including nature parks with wildlife, playgrounds and splash pads. Ann Morrison Park in downtown Boise is a 153-acre favorite and home to the Spirit of Boise Balloon Classic, while neighborhood parks and the Greenbelt connect much of the city.

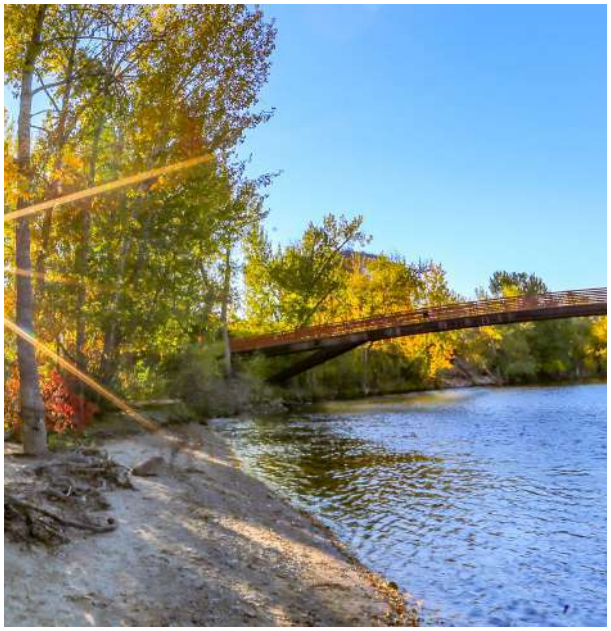

BOISE WHITEWATER PARK

Boise Whitewater Park, supported by the J.A. and Kathryn Albertson Foundation, uses adjustable features to shape river waves for kayakers, surfers and paddle boarders. Just a short drive from Boise's North End and downtown, the park sits alongside Quinn's Pond and Esther Simplot Park, creating a hub for urban boating and boarding.

RIVER FLOAT

From the end of June until the beginning of September, river enthusiasts on inner tubes, rafts, paddleboards, and even giant inflatable swans and pink flamingos float downstream on their various river adventures. Because it is a natural river with potentially dangerous tree limbs and debris, floaters should always use caution and wear life jackets while making their way from Barber Park to Ann Morrison Park. During the float season, Barber Park is home to a number of services that make it simple to join in on the fun and adventure, including equipment rental, air filling stations, and a shuttle service.

BOISE RIVER GREENBELT

One of the city's most recognizable landmarks is the Boise River Greenbelt. This 25-mile trail links several neighborhoods and parks along the Boise River to the city center. It begins at Lucky Peak Dam and ends in Eagle. Great horned owls, river otters, and even deer can be spotted along the way, giving the impression that you are deep in the wilderness, far from the hustle and bustle of the city.

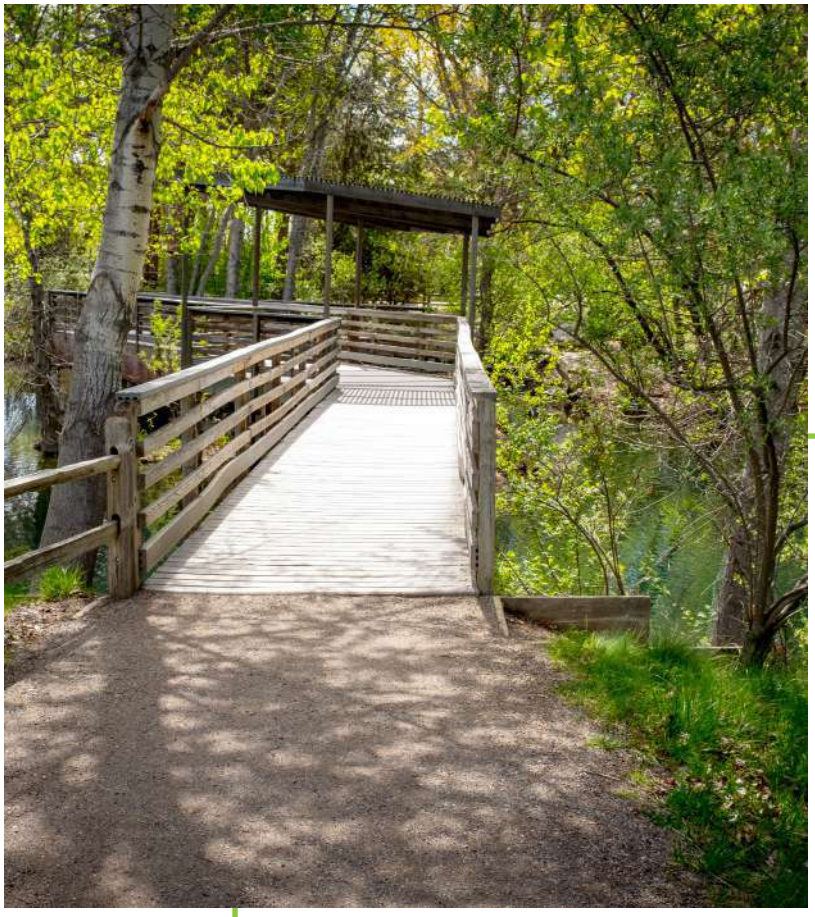

HULLS GULCH RESERVE

The recreation district of the Boise Foothills centers around the Hulls Gulch Reserve. The Grove and Lower Hulls Gulch are two of the most important trailheads in the area, and together they provide access to over 210 miles of the Ridge to Rivers trail system in the foothills. Community members worked together to protect Hulls Gulch Reserve from development in the early 1990s. Runners, hikers, mountain bikers, dog walkers, and equestrians all take advantage of today's fantastic recreational area.

MK NATURE CENTER

Located on the banks of the Boise River, the MK Nature Center is a free, well-hidden gem on Boise's Greenbelt, run by Idaho Fish and Game. Walk the nature trails, look for sturgeon, salmon and trout, and peek through the underwater viewing windows for a close look at local aquatic life and ecosystems.

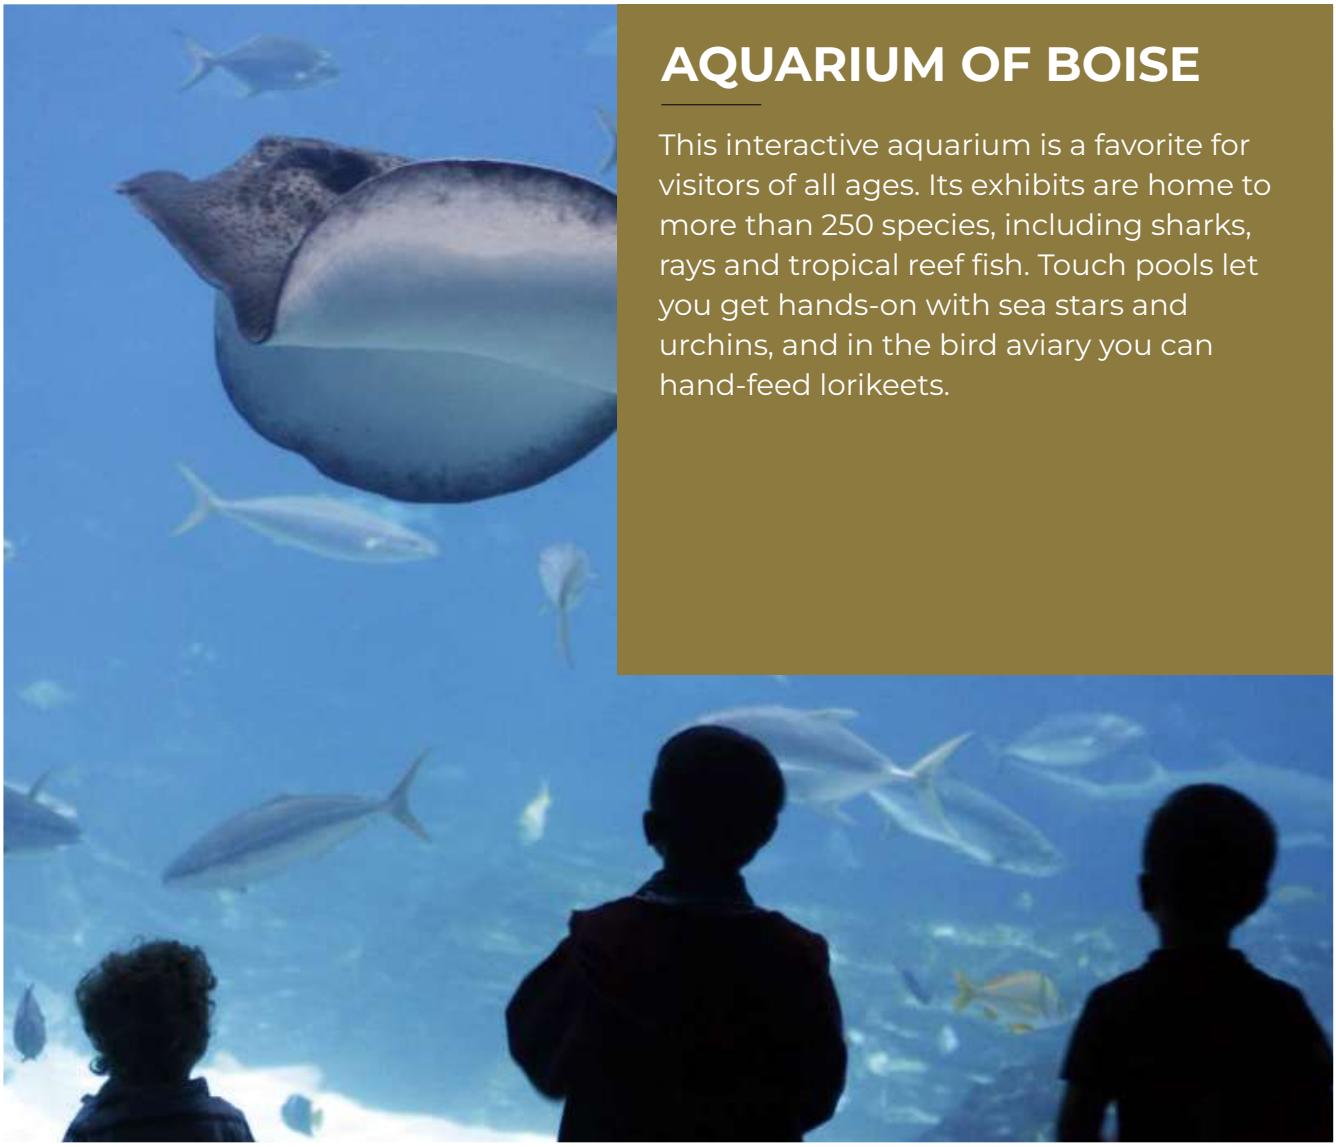

LAKE RECREATION

Idaho's lakes are perfect for a day, a weekend or a week. Within Boise city limits, Quinn's Pond at Esther Simplot Park offers a sandy beach, paddleboarding and other water activities. Water-skiing, fishing, boating, swimming and picnicking can be enjoyed at Lucky Peak State Park, just a few miles southeast of Boise. Camping and cabin rentals are available at many Idaho lakes.

SPIRIT OF BOISE BALLOON CLASSIC

A must-see, the Spirit of Boise Balloon Classic is an annual celebration held each September. Ann Morrison Park becomes a vibrant spectacle as dozens of colorful balloons arrive for the five-day festival (Sept. 2–6 in 2026). For more than three decades, the event has offered free fun for the whole community, including the Nite Glow, morning launches and free tethered rides for kids on Kid's Day.

AQUARIUM OF BOISE

This interactive aquarium is a favorite for visitors of all ages. Its exhibits are home to more than 250 species, including sharks, rays and tropical reef fish. Touch pools let you get hands-on with sea stars and urchins, and in the bird aviary you can hand-feed lorikeets.

BIRDS OF PREY

The World Center for Birds of Prey is located on a hill south of the Boise Airport with a view of the city. The Peregrine Fund, renowned for its work to save endangered bird species, operates out of this widely publicized and frequented facility. Eagles, owls, vultures, hawks, and falcons from all over the world are on display at this one-of-a-kind indoor and outdoor learning center. See rare birds of prey in action at demonstrations and exhibits.

THE BASQUE BLOCK

The Basque Country lies in the western Pyrenees, on the border between France and Spain. Many Basques immigrated to Idaho beginning in the late 1800s, and Boise is home to one of the largest Basque communities in the United States. This history is honored on the Basque Block in the heart of downtown, home to the Basque Museum & Cultural Center as well as restaurants and gathering places.

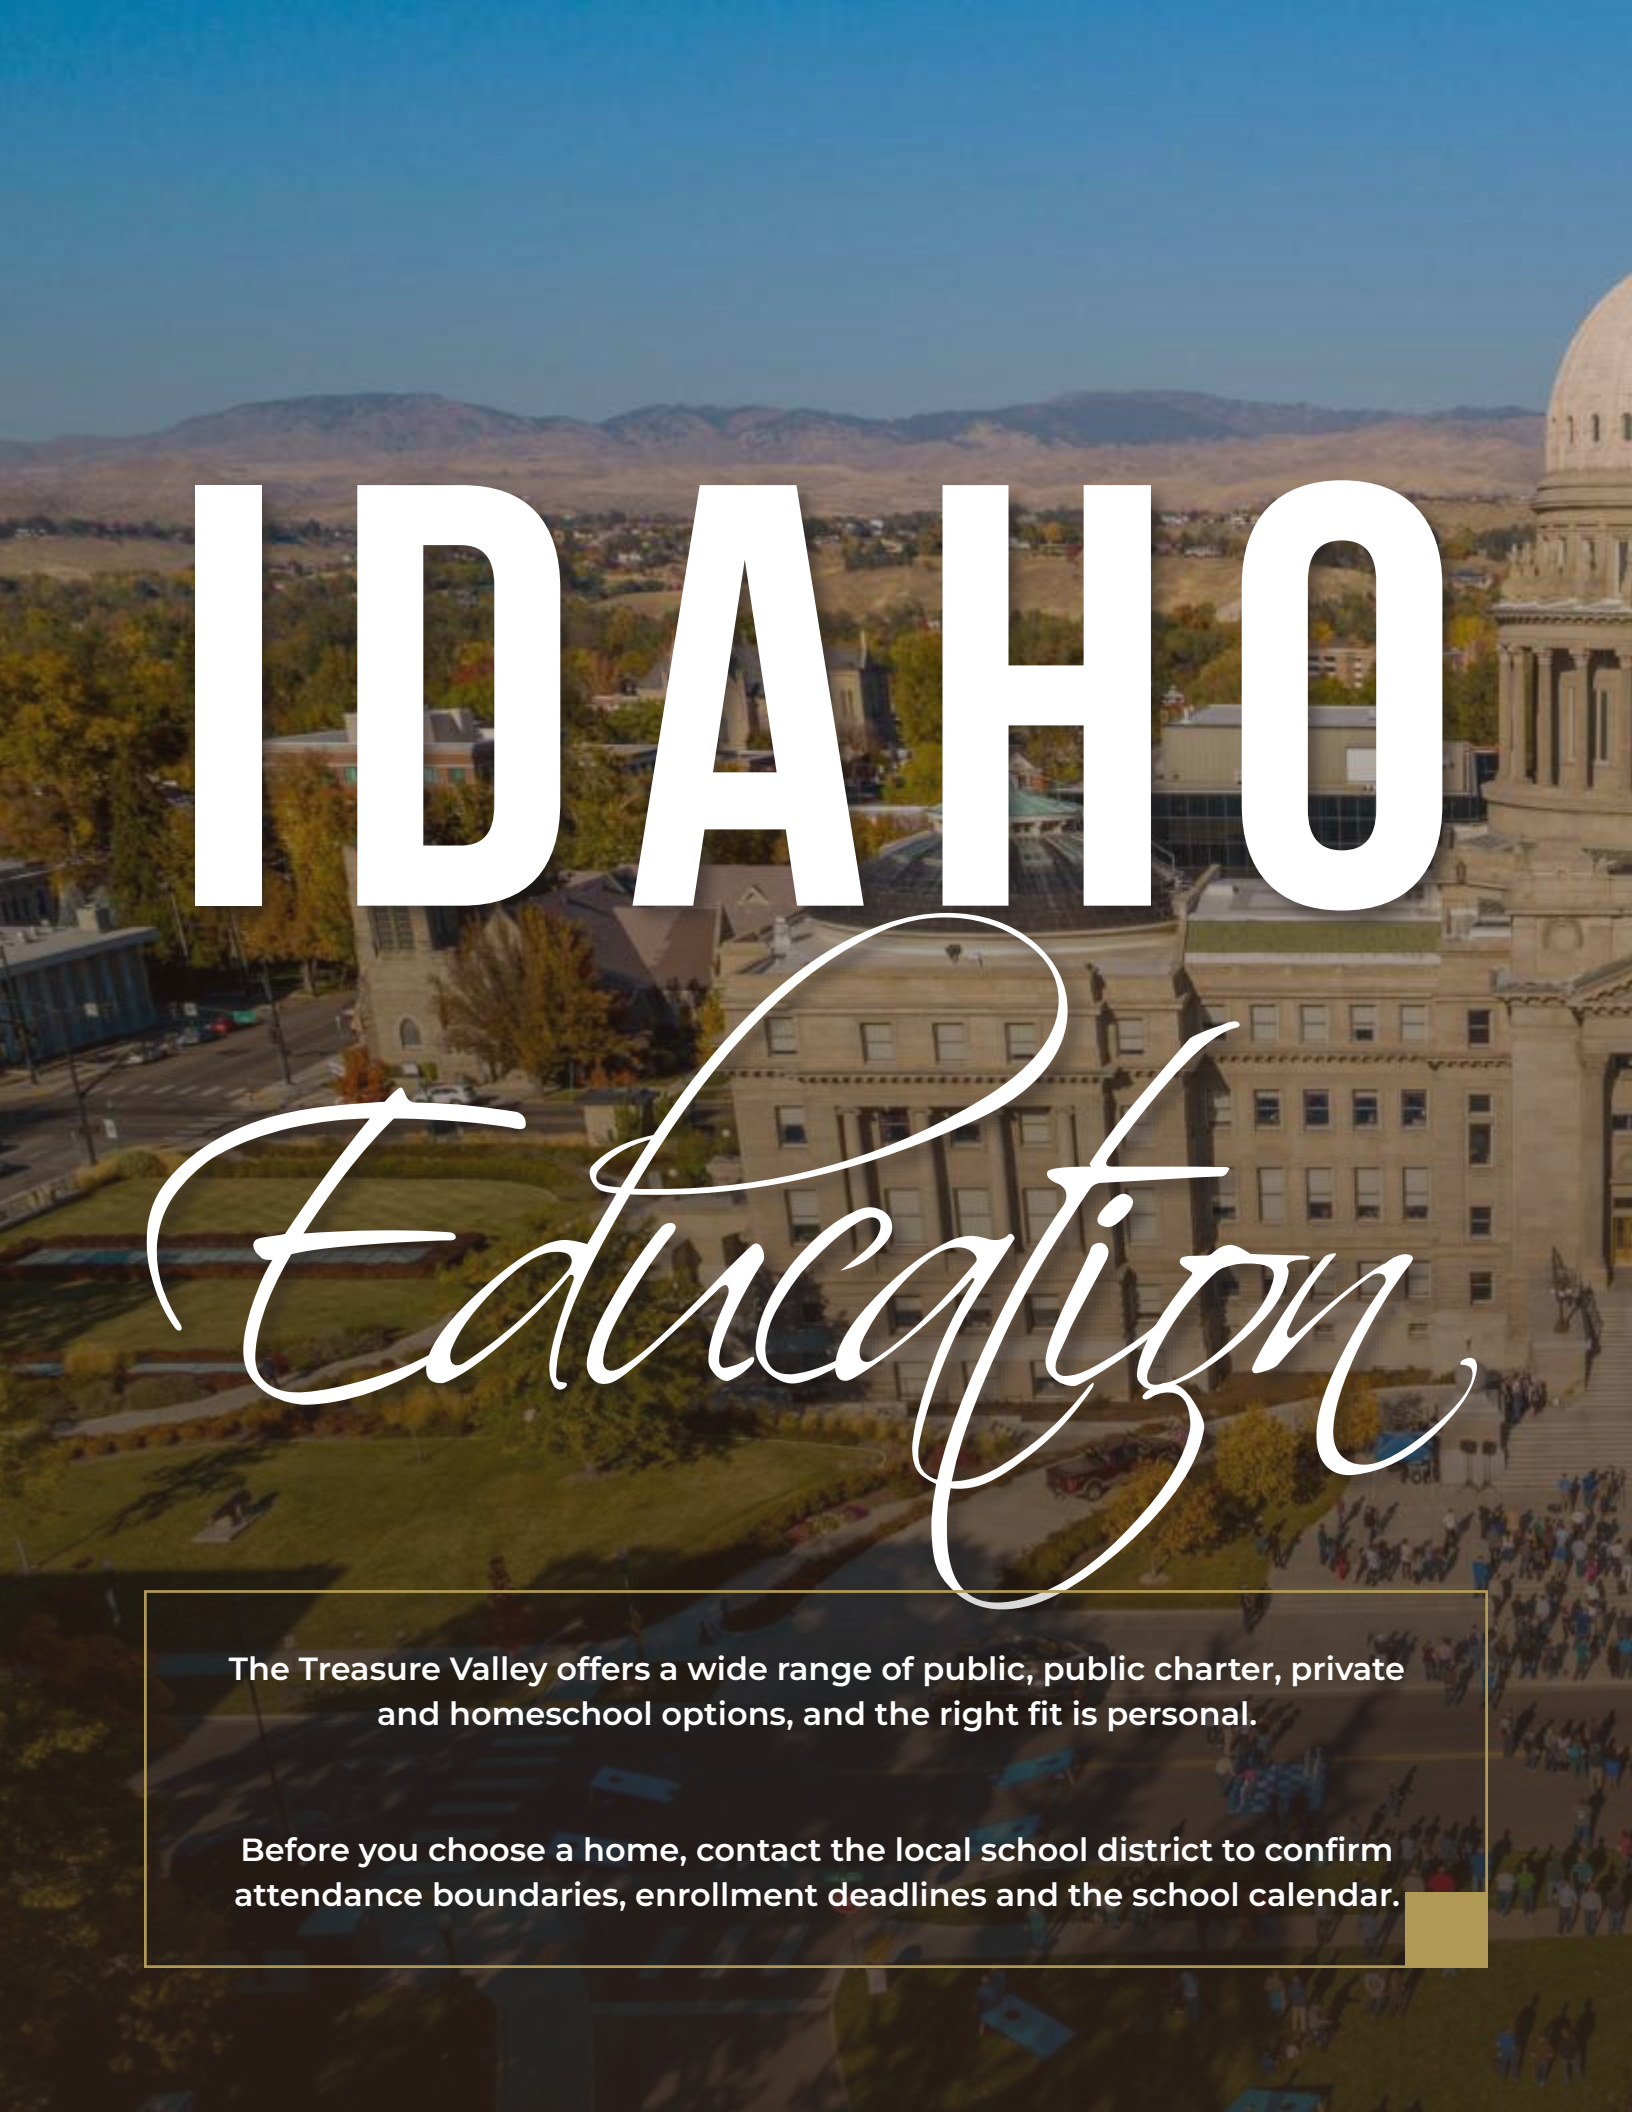

IDAHO SHAKESPEARE FESTIVAL

Since 1977, the Idaho Shakespeare Festival has brought professional theater to an outdoor amphitheater along the Boise River. Each season, from late May through September, plays (not all by Shakespeare) run in rotating repertory. Arrive early for a picnic on the lawn or a meal from the onsite café before the show.

TREEFORT MUSIC FEST

Each spring, Treefort Music Fest fills downtown Boise with hundreds of bands across venues big and small, plus “Forts” for film, comedy, art and more. The 2027 festival runs March 31–April 4. Year-round, the Morrison Center, Ford Idaho Center and Idaho Central Arena host touring concerts, Broadway shows and more.

IDAHO Education

The Treasure Valley offers a wide range of public, public charter, private and homeschool options, and the right fit is personal.

Before you choose a home, contact the local school district to confirm attendance boundaries, enrollment deadlines and the school calendar.

HOMESCHOOLING IN IDAHO

Homeschooling is a well-established option in Idaho, and it is simple to begin. Idaho has no registration or enrollment requirements, and it does not regulate or monitor homeschooling. Parents choose the curricula for their children.

REQUIREMENTS

The state of Idaho mandates that children receive instruction between the ages of seven and sixteen, and that homeschooled students study subjects taught in public schools. These subjects include mathematics, language arts, science, and social studies, but are not limited to them. Parents are not required to have specific qualifications to teach, nor are they required to maintain school records or obtain district approval. There are no minimum requirements for the number of days or hours of instruction, teaching evaluation questionnaires, or standardized tests.

TESTING & RECORDS

Despite the fact that children in Idaho are not required to take standardized tests, it can be reassuring to confirm your child's educational progress. There are online resources that allow you to take standardized tests from the comfort of your home. (For further information, visit homeschoolidaho.org/testing.)

Even though Idaho does not mandate recordkeeping, it is prudent to maintain records for at least two years. Curriculum, schoolwork, and test results, certificates, and accomplishments, and even attendance records could be recorded.

RESOURCES

As a homeschooling parent, your best resources are other homeschoolers. There are numerous groups, organizations, co-ops and playgroups in the Treasure Valley that facilitate these connections. Homeschool Idaho hosts an annual convention with workshops, curriculum vendors and speakers. Check homeschoolidaho.org for current dates and location.

HIGHER EDUCATION

Throughout the Treasure Valley, you'll find colleges and universities setting themselves apart, providing exceptional programs in various fields of studies.

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY
UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO BOISE
IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY – MERIDIAN
NORTHWEST NAZARENE UNIVERSITY

THE COLLEGE OF IDAHO
IDAHO COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE
BOISE BIBLE COLLEGE
COLLEGE OF WESTERN IDAHO

BOISE STATE UNIVERSITY

The Boise State University campus runs along the banks of the Boise River, a short walk from downtown Boise. Idaho's largest public university, Boise State offers a broad range of undergraduate, graduate and doctoral programs, including a master's degree in raptor biology. Students can combine majors, minors and certificates with internships, hands-on research and work opportunities to shape an education that fits their goals. Campus events, the Morrison Center and Bronco athletics make the university part of everyday life in the city.

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO BOISE

Strategically located in Boise, University of Idaho Boise brings the resources of the University of Idaho to southwest Idaho through teaching, research and outreach. Programs in Boise include the University of Idaho College of Law, graduate and professional programs, and Extension services that support communities across the region.

IDAHO STATE UNIVERSITY – MERIDIAN

Founded in 1901, Idaho State University is the state's designated lead institution in health professions. Its Meridian Health Science Center brings undergraduate and graduate programs in health and related fields to the Treasure Valley, for students and working professionals alike.

NORTHWEST NAZARENE UNIVERSITY

Northwest Nazarene University is a private Christian university of the liberal arts with a campus of about 90 acres in Nampa. It offers undergraduate, graduate and doctoral programs, along with online programs and concurrent-credit courses for high school students. NNU is accredited by the Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities.

THE COLLEGE OF IDAHO

The College of Idaho is a private, residential liberal arts college in Caldwell. Founded in 1891, it is Idaho's oldest private liberal arts college. The college is known for an individualized curriculum that pairs the liberal arts with professional studies, and for a close-knit campus community of scholars, athletes and artists.

IDAHO COLLEGE OF OSTEOPATHIC MEDICINE

The Idaho College of Osteopathic Medicine mission is to train osteopathic physicians prepared for caring for persons in Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, and beyond. Idaho College of Osteopathic Medicine (ICOM) awards the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree (DO). The DO degree is a 4-year degree with years 1 and 2 comprising on-campus didactic lectures, small group assignments, laboratory, and clinical experiences. ICOM students spend their third and fourth years doing clinical clerkship rotations at core affiliated hospital and outpatient sites.

BOISE BIBLE COLLEGE

Located on a 16-acre campus at the edge of Boise, Boise Bible College is minutes from hiking, biking, and other outdoor activities. BBC is leading the charge on incorporating Biblical truths with relevant and innovative academics. It's a place where students strengthen their talents in every area, explore God's community through multiple avenues, forge ties with the global Church and develop the character traits they need to serve Jesus in any career they choose. Students at Boise Bible College learn to passionately and innovatively communicate Biblical truth as they study the ancient text so that it may be applied wherever God leads them.

COLLEGE OF WESTERN IDAHO

College of Western Idaho (CWI) is a comprehensive community college providing higher education programs to Western Idaho residents. They offer a full range of academic and career-technical courses leading to an Associate of Arts or Science degree, Associate of Applied Science degrees, continuing education, and certificates. CWI also offers Basic Skills Education to prepare for a GED, Dual Credit for high school students, and fast-track career training for working professionals. Campuses located throughout the Treasure Valley or online allow students to choose what classes will meet their needs.

TREASURE VALLEY

HealthCare

SAINT ALPHONSUS REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER

Saint Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise is designated a Level II Trauma Center by the Idaho Time Sensitive Emergency system. St. Al's, as locals call it, provides emergency, heart, stroke, orthopedic and surgical care. Saint Alphonsus Health System operates medical centers in Boise and Nampa, Idaho, and in Ontario and Baker City, Oregon.

ST. LUKE'S BOISE MEDICAL CENTER

Founded in 1902, St. Luke's Boise Medical Center is the flagship hospital of St. Luke's Health System. St. Luke's Boise provides access to skilled specialists, nurses and staff on its downtown campus, and it is designated a Magnet hospital for nursing excellence.

TREASURE VALLEY HOSPITAL

Treasure Valley Hospital is a physician-owned, non-emergency surgical and imaging hospital in Boise, operated with Surgical Care Affiliates (SCA). Its physicians take part directly in care decisions, staffing and operations, with a focus on surgical specialties such as orthopedics.

BOISE VA MEDICAL CENTER

Boise VA Medical Center provides primary, specialty and mental health care to veterans across southwest Idaho and eastern Oregon, with community-based outpatient clinics across the region. Visit the VA Boise Health Care website for current locations and services.

Teleworking

The trend toward remote work, also known as telecommuting, grew sharply beginning in 2020 and remains part of how many people work today. Remote workers often look for reliable high-speed internet, a range of housing options and easy access to an airport. For many remote professionals and freelancers, Boise and the Treasure Valley check those boxes.

Boise and the surrounding cities have access to high-speed internet, with gigabit service available in many areas. Check providers by address before you buy.

The Boise Airport sits just off Interstate 84, minutes from downtown. In 2025 it served a record 5.2 million passengers, with eight airlines and nonstop service to about 30 destinations.

Many buyers now plan for a dedicated home office, and the valley's mix of homes, condos and apartments offers a range of layouts to consider.

Food delivery, coworking spaces and ridesharing apps like Uber and Lyft are all within easy reach.

A mid-sized metro like Boise offers a balance: the everyday services remote workers rely on, without the pace of a much larger city.
